Washingt... 'Cools' to ... With Relie... Due Tonight

Showers and High Of 90 Predicted; Near-Record Heat Prostrates 2 Here

Washington got cooler weather yesterday—cooler by one degree.

The Weather Bureau had promised slight relief yesterday on the heels of the record 96 of Thursday. But the contrary mercury bubbled up to 95 at 4:10 p. m. yesterday.

But take heart you limp sufferers; the Weather Bureau says the heat spell will definitely be shattered tonight with the arrival of cooler weather.

It'll be warm again today with a high temperature of about 90. The day will be mostly sunny with some chance of scattered thundershowers in the afternoon.

The cool air front which will bring relief to Washington was over northern Maine last night and moving southward. It will spread over New York at about noon today and will reach here tonight. Tomorrow should bring pleasant temperatures in the low or middle 80s.

Showers were forecast here last night. Some rain fell in parts of the city. It was reported heavy in parts of northwest Washington, but there was little more than a sprinkle downtown. The Weather Bureau couldn't find enough to measure.

Two Hospitalized

Yesterday's 95-degree weather—the second hottest of the year in Washington—was only one point short of the record for the date set in 1938. It resulted in the early release of thousands of District and Federal Government workers for the second successive day and sent two persons to Casualty Hospital.

The heat victims both suffered more serious injuries when they collapsed. They were Mrs. Lillian Worthen, 42, 510 I st. nw., who slumped to the pavement while walking in the 600 block of I st. nw.; and Jack Brennan, 39, a cab driver who lives at the Congress Hotel, 302 E st. nw., who was overcome in a restaurant at 629 4th st. sw.

Both were admitted to Casualty Hospital. Brennan suffered a possible fractured skull and a cut nose, Mrs. Worthen a possible fractured skull and scalp lacerations.

Humidity Higher

In Baltimore, two deaths were reported caused by the heat wave.

If you felt the heat more yesterday than you did Thursday, it was probably because the humidity was higher. The humidity ranged in the 40s yesterday, about 10 percentage points above the previous day.

Yesterday's low temperature mark—a 72—was reached at 6:58 a. m.

Forget Strife ... elebrate Freedom

New Delhi, Aug. 15 (AP).—Millions of Hindus and Moslems dropped their months-long fratricidal strife in the emotional upsurge of celebrating their first day of independence today.

Appeals for peace sped across the young dominions of India and Pakistan, but the bitterly opposed religious communities still fought a mutually destructive conflict in the Punjab, where press dispatches reported vultures preying on the bodies of the fallen.

The toll of rioting and gang warfare in that unhappy province rose to 268 dead and 65 wounded in four days in the capital city of Lahore. A dozen fires blazed in the city, and authorities disclosed the use of tanks by the military for the first time to suppress heavily armed gangs.

The award of a boundary commission partitioning the province between the two dominions was delayed for two days as the British governor general, Sir. Evan Jenkins, handed in a temporary "basis of national division."

New Delhi's first day of liberation from British rule was ushered in with ceremonies combining the pomp and splendor of East and West, and Calcutta's millions of Hindus and Moslems joined freely in celebrating together.

Embracing each other, shouting "Jai Hind (Victory to Indian), and waving the new tri-color flag of saffron, green and white, the Calcutta crowds marched by the thousands in a "holy pilgrimage" to the temporary residence of Mohandas K. Gandhi, the "architect of India's freedom."

There, where the wispy Indian was conducting his own celebration with fasting, praying and spinning, they shouted "Hindu, Moslem one."

In New Delhi hilarious crowds planted a flagpole wherever there was room for one. Bands blared. Horsedrawn tongas (two wheeled carts) were gaily decorated. Shops, banks and newspapers closed for the day.

Bombay, birthplace and backbone of the Congress Party's triumphant freedom struggle, staged the greatest mass demonstration in its history with 400,000 persons parading from the Gowalia Reservoir where the first session of the party was held 62 years ago. Motorcyclists mingled with bullock carts.

Moslem Pakistan's celebration in Karachi came to a conclusion with a military parade viewed by 100,000. Mahomed Ali Jinnah, Moslem chief, took the salute as a detachment of the Pakistan Navy and Army marched past and a squadron of air force planes flew overhead.

Prime Minister Jawaharalal Nehru concluded the Hindu dominion's first day with a nationwide broadcast in which he told

Big 4 Alone Not to Write Jap Treaty

U. S. Tells Russia All Nations Most Concerned Will Have Voice in Parleys

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

The United States has told Russia the Japanese peace treaty will be written by all the nations most concerned, and not by the Big Four alone.

This country made it clear that, should Russia decide to snub the conference, it will be held anyway.

In taking this position, the United States rejected a Soviet proposal that a council of Foreign Ministers of the United States, Britain, Russia and China work ou the treaty. This stand obviously was designed to prevent Soviet control of the proceedings by use of the veto, since all decisions of a Big Four conference would have to be unanimous.

It was this use of the veto by Russia which repeatedly deadlocked efforts to arrive at treaties with the Balkan satellites, Italy, Germany and Austria.

The American position was set forth in a note made public yesterday by the State Department which was dated August 12 and was presented August 13 to Semen K. Tsarapkin, Charge d'Affaires of the Soviet Embassy here.

The United States insists on a conference of 11 powers, all of which, except Russia, have agreed to attend. Its decisions would be reached by a two thirds vote.

In addition to the United States and Russia, countries consulted are Great Britain, China, Australia, New Zealand, the Netherlands, France, the Philippines, India and Canada. All are intimately concerned in the Pacific and all, especially Australia, have demanded a voice in arranging a Japanese treaty.

While no definite date was set for the conference, the note said

AAF Pulling Air Groups Back to U. S.

14 Units in Europe Will Be Reduced To 2; Strength in Pacific Concealed

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

United States Air Force units in Europe and the Pacific are being drastically reduced in strength. The Washington Post has learned, under a high level strategic decision to concentrate American air power in the United States.

The curtailment program has been quietly under way for sometime, a high source revealed. When completed, the 14 partially skeletonized USAF groups in Europe two or three months ago will have been cut to two.

USAF manpower in Europe, it was said, is now about half of the 45,000 to 50,000 total it was in the spring. When the reorganization and withdrawal is complete there will be from 8000 to 10,000 USAF officers and men in the European theater.

Pacific Strength Secret

These facts, a high source stated, are well known in foreign military circles on the continent.

The extent of the withdrawal of combat groups from Far Pacific bases, however, is a different matter. Current or prospective strengths are closely guarded serets and may not be published.

When the European reduction is complete, there will remain a bare minimum of combat air units to support occupation troops in their police duties and sufficient Air Transport Command personnel to handle air transport operations. The combat group will consist solely or fighters anrd reconnaissance craft. All bombardment groups were withdrawn months ago.

B-29s Start Missions

Supplementing these forces, however, will be heavy bomber groups based in the United States making training flights to Europe. The B-29 forces of Strategic Air Command already have started such missions under a rotation schedule.

Reasons given for the curtailment of overseas units are:

1. A relatively small, but hard-hitting and compact mobile air force at home is a far more potent weapon than skeletonized groups scattered over the world.

2. Shortage of funds and more particularly trained aircrewmen and ground technicians make it impossible for the AAF to maintain a striking force at home in a ready condition and keep up sizeable units overseas. Of some 70 groups on the AAF "active list," only about 40 are at full peace-time strength. The rest are largely on paper. Funds are available to build up to 55 full-strength groups this year.

3. There is an unexcess of repair and supply depots to maintain combat units in the United States. Maintenance of temporary facilities for such purposes overseas is very expensive.

4. Maintenance problems at such tropical Pacific islands as Guam and Saipan are difficult. Planes there for any length of time rot without constant care.

5. In the event of a major war in Europe in which the United States were involved, whatever air units and bases were held would be wiped out in a short time by a major foe.

Unite Against Attacks, Marshall Proposes To American Nations

None Should Stay Neutral, He Says, After President of Brazil Opens Talks

Petropolis, Brazil, Aug. 15 (AP).—The Inter-American Conference of 20 nations to formulate a hemisphere defense plan was opened today with the keynote on aggression.

[Almost immediately, Secretary of State George C. Marshall proposed that no signatory of the hemisphere defense pact should be able to remain neutral in any action against aggressors, the United Press reported.

[Marshall disclosed his move at a press conference after the plenary session at which President Eurico Gaspar Dutra of Brazil warned that the presence of potential lawbreakers in the world made it necessary for the American republics to be united against attack from any source.

Proposes Revision

[Marshall proposes to revise an American draft defense treaty by specifying:

[". . . That those collective measures specifically mentioned in the Act of Chapultepec (the wartime hemisphere defense pact) shall be obligatory on all contracting parties when agreed upon in consultation by a vote of two thirds of the parties, with the sole exception that no state shall be required to furnish armed forces without its consent."

[Argentine, which remained neutral in the last war almost to the end, would thus be unable to do so in another war of defense.

[The original American draft provided that diplomatic, economic or military penalties might be taken by a two thirds vote but would be binding only on those who voted favorably. The revised draft would bind every signatory to go with the majority—even to the point of declaring war.—Editor's Note.]

The Brazilian President spoke from a podium behind which were draped the flags of all 21 American republics although Nicaragua temporarily has been denied an invitation to the conference.

Dutra urged the delegates to give the world an example of universal unity. He told them they would translate into terms of practical policy the principle that "in an organized international society there can be no place for neutrality between law and crime."

Mexican Minister Replies

He said the American nations, to give "a practical meaning" to the rules of good neighborliness, had issued their "declaration of collective security in the face of aggression against states of this continent."

"It is to this declaration of solidarity," he continued, "that you are called to give contract form and executive force in the shape of a pact for continental defense."

Jaime Torres-Bodet, Mexican Foreign Minister, replying on behalf of the conference, declared that economic security was a fundamental for hemispheric security and that the American republics must fight against poverty, hunger, ignorance and disease just as hard as they fight for maintenance of political peace and security.

Joint continental defense, Torres-Bodet said, must be strengthened at the base and not

Gerhart Eisler Found Guilty Of Fraud in Passport Case

By Joseph Paull,
Post Reporter

Gerhart Eisler, reputed undercover agent for the Kremlin, was found guilty yesterday of passport fraud.

A District Court jury here deliberated 2 hours and 15 minutes before returning the verdict, which carries a penalty of up to 5 years' imprisonment and a $5000 fine.

The little 50-year-old Communist took the verdict with a pained expression. He said he expected a conviction, stating:

"In the present political atmosphere I did not expect any other outcome in Washington.

Justice James W. Morris allowed Eisler to go free under $20,000 bond. The Government, through Assistant United States Attorney William Hitz, asked $100,000 bond.

Sentencing was deferred, and defense counsel allowed 30 days in which to file motions for a new trial and for an arrest of judgment. An appeal will be taken should these steps fail, the defense announced.

Eisler was charged with making false statements and fradulent concealments in applying for permission to leave this country in 1945. In order to get favorable action, the indictment charged, Eisler fraudulently denied that he was affiliated with the Communist Party of America, that he had used aliases, and that he had been in this country between 1934 and 1936.

111 Trapped By Blast in British Mine

10 of 121 Are Saved; 'Some Time' Required To Reach Remainder

Whitehaven, England, Aug. 15 (AP).—An explosion in Britain's oldest undersea coal mine trapped 121 miners tonight, of whom 10 were rescued a few hours after the blast, the national coal board's area general manager said.

J. G. Helps, the manager, said the remaining 111 men still were trapped five hours after the blast and added: "It will be some time before they can be released."

His statement left in doubt whether any of the trapped men were killed by the explosion or roof falls which followed.

The blast occurred in the 135-year-old William Mine in Cumberland County at the northwest corner of England.

Rescue parties entered the pit immdiately after the explosion at 7 p. m.

The William Mine at one time extended seven miles under Solway Firth, near the entrance to the Irish Sea, but its deepest workings were sealed off three years ago after 10 men were killed in an explosion.

If the toll of the explosion is as high as feared, it would be Britain's worst disaster since 178 persons were killed and 60 injured when a bomb exploded in a

Inspector Had Warned Mine Might Be Unsafe

West Frankfort, Ill., Aug. 15 (AP). A Federal mine inspector reported last month that there were indications of a gaseous condition in the world's largest one-shaft coal mine where three men died in an underground blast last night.

A United States Bureau of Mines report, dated July 10-23 and signed by H. C. Brumbaugh, recommended that "all faces where electrical equipment operates be inspected frequently for methane."

In Washington the Bureau of Mines said preliminary reports on the West Frankfort explosion indicated sparks from an electrical cutting machine had ignited gas fumes.

The explosion occurred in the New Orient between 8:30 and 9 p. m. while more than 80 men were below ground, but most of the miners worked out their night shifts unaware that anything was wrong.

One hundred and thirty-eight men were killed in two recent southern Illinois coal mine explosions. On March 25, in a blast at Centralia, 111 died. On July 24, in a mine across town from the New Orient, 27 were killed.

AFL Protest Stops Police Work on Job

Young Orders Men Off Construction At Station House

The six policemen who have been bricklaying, carpentering and plastering in the basement of the Municipal Center went back to being policemen yesterday—on orders from Commissioner J. Russell Young.

The construction project came to a halt after an AFL labor representative protested to the office of Commissioner Young. An interview then was arranged with Acting Police Chief Walter Thomas and the work ordered stopped.

Thomas, who conferred with three labor representatives yesterday, said no more would be done the jail cell block until Police Chief Robert J. Barrett returned from his vacation the latter part of next week.

Action Up to Barrett

It will be up to Barrett to decide what action to take on the matter, Thomas said.

Commissioner Young, who ordered Thomas to check into the project and report back to him, said that he had ordered cessation of the work, but added:

"If the union has no objection to it, we may begin the job again, letting policeme ndo it on their own time and arranging some sort of credit on their annual leave."

That idea, however, according to Frank H. Howard of the AFL Washington Building Trades Council, is "not worth a damn."

Although first reports were that no District construction men were available to build the cell block addition, it was learned yesterday that no request for labor was made to the District construction director, Archie Hutson.

"I was not consulted about this job," said Hutson. "We probably could have assigned some bricklayers to them. I don't know how the work schedule would have been. When I am consulted on these jobs, I endeavor to do the work by contract or by using personnel from the D. C. Repair Shop. There are several qualified bricklayers in the repair shop."

Hutson suggested that in some cases where there is a "housekeep-

Reduce Air Loads In Hot Weather, CAB Suggests

By the United Press

The Civil Aeronautics Board yesterday proposed a new air-safety regulation reducing the load airliners can carry in warm weather.

Heat causes air to expand or become "thinner," and hence to have less buoyancy or "lift." Thus, the warmer the day, the less weight a plane's engines can lift from the ground in safety.

The proposed new regulation is highly complex, but in essence it would amount to reducing maximum loads when runway temperature is above 59 degrees, and raising the allowable weight when the temperature falls below 59 degrees.

Officials said it might take months to work out all of the details of the new weight-temperature formula, especially since the formula will vary with different types of planes, and with different runways.

However, an emergency order may be issued next week fixing interim regulations. The permanent order is expected to become mandatory next March 1.

The board also launched an investigation of various types of free and reduced-rate transportation. Special rates extended to group travel, tour conductors, travel agencies, and to employes and officials of other carriers will be studied for possible "unjust or unreasonable discrimination." Four domestic airlines—American, Colonial, Waterman and Chicago & Southern—and a Venezuelan airline will be investigated.

New Ruhr Coal Committees Being Studied

Transportation Held Vital to Continued Rise in Production

The Anglo-American Ruhr coal conference studied formation of new subcommittees here yesterday while reports from the Ruhr indicated that incentive payments already had increased production 16,000 tons a day.

With subcommittees on housing and equipment already functioning, the conferees were considering creating two such bodies to study transportation. One would take up the technical details of increasing rail outlets from the mines and the other would consider inland waterways.

In any event, it was determined yesterday to continue work through the weekend in an effort to arrive at any early solution to the difficulties of raising the level of coal production essential to European economic recovery.

Members of the subcommittee on housing, announced yesterday, are Col. Harry L. Berne, of the industrial section, Office of Military Government, for the United States, and Brig. D. L. Anderson, vice president of the economic subcommittee, control commission for Germany, for Great Britain.

The subcommittee on equipment consists of Max Forester, chief of the coal section, economics division, Office of Military Government, and John C. DeWilde, acting chief the division of German-Austrian economic affairs, State Department, for the United States, and H. E. Collins, senior director of the production branch of the north German Coal Control, and F. H. Harrison, chief fuel and power division, control commission for Germany, for Great Britain.

The United Press reported from Berlin that official figures showed an increase of 16,000 tons daily in Ruhr coal production to well above 230,000 tons. Sir Cecil Weir, economic director for the British, was reported as saying he expected another daily increase of 15,000 tons, bringing daily production to about 230,000 tons.

Jews, Fearing 'Arab D-Day,' Kill 11 in Attack

Haganah Strikes Back at 'Brigands,' Death Toll Now 31

Tel Aviv, Aug. 15 (AP).—The organized Jewish underground struck back at what it called "Arab brigandry" in Palestine's new racial war today and announced it had "executed" seven of the leaders in an effort to forestall an Arab "D-day."

Altogether 11 Arabs were killed in a bomb and machinegun attack on the two-story stone and steel house in an orange grove near Petah Tikvah, which Hagana, Jewish defense organization, called the "headquarters for Arab brigandry."

Along with other incidents today, the action brought Palestine's six-day racial war toll to 31 dead 107 injured and property losses of more than one million dollars.

Children Among Dead

Hagana, organized years ago to defend Jewish settlements, announced it had found the headquarters which "has been responsible" for recent Arab attacks on Jews and "executed the leader of the brigands and then executed six of his men found in the house."

When British soldiers investigated they found four Arabs who had been killed in a gun fight in the yard of the house six miles from Tel Aviv, and seven more bodies in the debris of the house that had been demolished by three electrically detonated charges.

Among the dead were the wife and four children and two grown sons of the man Hagana said was the "brigand" leader.

Fear "Arab Terror"

Two of the slain were Egyptians, and Hagana in a broadcast tonight declared recent Arab attacks were a "rehearsal for things to come," and were intended to create an atmosphere "for starting organized Arab terror against Jews in event the United Nations decision is unfavorable to the Arabs. Krupps, Suppliers Of Arms, Indicted As War Criminals

Nuernberg, Saturday, Aug. 16 (AP).—The Krupps, Germany's gunmakers for 133 years, were indicted as war criminals today.

Two years after the collapse of the Third Reich, American prosecutors presented to an all-American court a 50-page bill charging the giant Ruhr steelmaking and armament firm with waging aggressive war, plundering peaceful countries and exploiting slave labor to an inhuman climax.

Twelve men were named as directors of the $2,500,000,000 Krupp concern during the criminal years under Hitler.

Number one defendant is Alfred Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach, son of Bertha Krupp, heiress of the Krupp fortune who gave the name "Big Bertha" to the giant cannon which shelled Paris in the First World War.

Wide Price Differences Found

Dollar Now Buys Only Half As Much as It Did in 1939

By The Associated Press

Your 1939 dollar is worth only about 50 cents today in buying the ordinary necessities of life. It buys a lot more in some parts of the United States than in others.

An Associated Press survey of retail prices in 13 leading cities in all sections of the Nation revealed strikingly irregular increases.

Some products have soared out of all relation with others compared with prewar days.

Some cities where living costs were lowest in 1939 pay the most now.

The survey showed:

You can eat for less, by and large, in Minneapolis than in most cities.

You pay more for meat in the packing capital of Chicago than elsewhere.

Your housing dollar buys more in San Francisco and St. Louis, and least in Denver, compared with other cities.

Your clothing dollar goes about as far one place as another, but buys a lot less than in either 1939 or 1946.

Your meat bill has gone up much more, percentagewise, than your bread or milk bills. Butter and eggs rate much higher on your budget than they did comparatively before the war.

In most items, half or more of the price increase has come in the last year.

While your housing dollar buys only half as much most places as in 1939, in Columbus and San Francisco it buys more than it did in June 1946.

Surveying typical products in the three fields of food, clothing and housing marked by the Department of Justice for "price conspiracy" investigation, the Associated Press survey found, in the 13 cities, item by item:

BACON—Prices jumped 300 to 400 per cent in many cities in all sections of the country between 1939 and the present. In money, the range of increase was from 30 to 63 cents a pound.

PORK CHOPS—Chicago led the Nation, paying the highest present price, 85 cents a pound, and reporting the greatest increase, 66 cents, over 1939, and the greatest jump, 48 cents, since June, 1946. Minneapolis pays the lowest price today, 67 cents, and had the least increase over 1939, or 37 cents a pound.

ROUND STEAK: Wide variations, both in present prices and in increases in the last eight years, were reported by various cities.

Legality of Ban Questioned

Ruling to Be Asked on Moving Drinks From Table to Table

By James E. Ficken
Post Reporter

Washington's fluid-drinking situation yesterday brought these new developments:

1. Alan W. Payne, chairman of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, announced he would ask the Commissioners Monday to secure a legal opinion on whether District drinkers can stand up and walk around with drinks under D. C. law.

2. Capt. Rhoda J. Milliken, head of the Police Department Women's Bureau, said her officers would prefer charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor against persons ordering drinks for minors.

She said, however, that she didn't anticipate many arrests because "the tavern operators are cooperating" to ban children's drinking.

Payne's announcement came after Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West said there was some "question" whether it was legal to keep persons from standing up and moving around with drinks after they received them legally while seated at a table.

West said he would give a legal opinion on the subject if the ABC requested it. Although he cast doubt on the legality of the rule, West said he thought the practice of keeping persons seated while drinking was "salutary."

This was the second ABC inter-

Problem Called 'Critical'

Petroleum Industry to Give Military Demands Priority

By the United Press

Heeding the urgent appeals of Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal, a spokesman for the petroleum industry promised last night that producers would give military demands priority over civilian consumers in the purchase of oil and gasoline.

The promise was made by Harry W. Page of the National Petroleum Council's committee on military and Government requirements at a closed meeting of Government and industry officials.

Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug convened the conference in order to solve the current "critical" problem of a threatened fuel shortage.

The details of today's discussions were revealed by the War Department.

The conference was called as the Government threw open 1,000,000 acres of Wyoming forest land to oil exploration as a means of preventing a wide-spread military petroleum shortage.

Krug said that in addition, a further tightening of civilian consumption will be necessary.

Forrestal told the conference that his plea for a priority for military consumers was based on "calm study" and was not to be considered a "hysterical appeal." Similar pleas were made by Secretary of War Kenneth C. Royall, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, and Lieut. Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, deputy commander of the Army Air Forces.

Jewish Underground, Fearing Arab D-Day, Kills 11 in Attack

ganized Arab terror is nearing D-day."

Haj Amin Effendi Al Husseini, Mufti of Jerusalem, is in refuge in Egypt, having fled into exile years ago when the British sought him for allegedly stirring up Palestine Arabs.

The first Arab reaction to the incident was that of a spokesman in Jaffa, who commented, "Now watch for some Arab reaction in the same manner, and this time it will probably be with official blessing."

Government Called On

Until now, both Jewish and Arab official spokesmen have urged their followers to keep cool heads and to cooperate in keeping down incitement.

In Jerusalem, a Jewish Agency spokesman said "we ask the government to do all in its power to gain control of the situation before it is too late and before irresponsible elements plunge the country into a blood bath."

A government communique declared "steps to deal with the disturbances have been taken by the security forces" and again emphasized its view that the "various outrages" since Sunday night were nothing more than a "series of disconnected incidents confined to a limited area."

Slum Areas Quiet

Hagana, however, declared the residents of the blasted house had plotted repeated raids on Jewish settlements on the Sharon Plains and were responsible for the initial attack in the racial war, the raid on a Tel Aviv night club Sunday night in which five persons were killed.

"We are determined to liquidate the armed Arab bands and to prevent further skirmishes and provocations," said the Hagana broadcast.

The broadcast asked Jews to avoid street fighting "regardless of provocation" and to rely on Hagana to defend them and punish Arab attackers.

Official sources said 30 to 35 men in khaki shorts and shirts participated in the Orange Grove attack.

The usual area of conflict, the squalid slum quarters and market places of the border area of the "twin cities" of Jewish Tel Aviv and Arab Jaffa, were comparatively quiet but ominous.

2000 Flee Border

Police estimated that 2000 persons, both Arabs and Jews but mostly Jews, had fled the border area in the last three days.

In the Shiekh Murad quarter of Jaffa, two Arabs died of knife wounds as they made their way toward the mosque, and a third was found dead of stab wounds by the roadside near Ramat Gan.

A Jew was found fatally wounded through the head at Saba colony.

Aside from the racial strife the Palestine government continued its campaign against Jewish terrorism, arresting 18 persons, including two municipal councilors, the owner of the town's largest diamond factory and some members of the Revisionist Party at Natanya, seaside resort where Irgun Zvai Leumi executed two British sergeant hostages two weeks ago. The town's mayor was arrested in a roundup soon after the executions.

Hindus and Moslems Forget Strife to Celebrate Freedom

the people "our first and immediate objective must be to put an end to all internal strife and violence which disfigure and degrade us and injure the cause of freedom."

The splendor was at famed Durbar Hall in government house, until today the Viceregal Palace, where Lord Mountbatten stood before the new chief justice of India and kissed the Bible to seal his oath as India's first governor general.

Then in a state coach drawn by six fine horses, preceded and followed by Bengal Lancers in snow white uniforms and black cavalry boots, Mountbatten drove to the Constituent Assembly for ceremonies at which he announced his service would end March 31 so "India should be at liberty if you so wish to have one of your own people as governor general."

A new attitude of the crowds toward the British, who were rulers of India yesterday, was exemplified in the warmhearted reception for Mountbatten, who returned it with just as much warmth.

The March 31, 1948 date for his retirement from the office of governor general is the end of the period of "transitional" powers granted by Britain to the governors general of Hindu India and Moslem Pakistan. It is assumed that constitutional governments in both dominions will be fully established and the details of partition settled by then.

Nearly a third of those convicted were operators of the notorious Nazi concentration camps for hundreds of thousands of political and war prisoners.

Groves Says Army Takes Only Half Of Volunteers

Chicago, Aug. 15 (A.P.).—Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, former director of the Army's atom bomb project, today asserted "that only about 50 out of every 100 volunteers for our new Regular Army and Air Force can measure up to the high enlistment standards."

He told the first reunion of the Eleventh Armored (Thunderbolt) Division, that Army enlistment standards have been raised "in spite of our acute need for manpower to raise and maintain a volunteer Army of one million men.

"A truly modern Army requires a higher type of soldier than ever before . . . our Army must lead in the caliber of its men if it is to provide adequate defense in the atomic age."

pen names, and that he concealed his previous trip here because it would endanger his "friends."

The "intent" of the defendant, Justice Morris pointed out to the jury, was the primary issue in the case.

The jurist charged them that they could return a verdict of guilty only if they believed Eisler knowingly made the false statements with the intent of obtaining the exit permit.

On the other hand, he said:

"If you believe the defendant's testimony that his reason for making the alleged false statements was to protect other persons from punishment or exposure—and these statements were not made to secure the departure permit—then you cannot . . . find him guilty."

He sent them to the jury room with the admonition to consider the case without "sympathy, bias or prejudice."

Prejudice Charged

During the trial, Eisler's attorneys repeatedly charged that he was being tried in an inflammatory atmosphere of hysteria and prejudice. They also said the Government knew all about Eisler's activities, having trailed him ever since he arrived here in 1941.

Eisler, himself, told the jury he considered many of the questions on the exit application "nobody's business." He said he considered the application unimportant and composed of "bureaucrats."

Denies Importance

He denied he was an "important" Communist, but said he was a "responsible" Communist who devoted his recent years, both here and underground in Europe, to the defeat of Hitler and liberation of his native Austria and Germany where he lived for many years.

He scoffed as "irresponsible" assertions charges that he was an "atom spy" and a member of the Comintern or OGPU. He admitted he was schooled in Moscow.

As the trial progressed, Eisler became increasingly irritable. On the last two days, he berated reporters for not making "searching analyses" of Government witnesses who included his estranged sister, Ruth Fischer, and Louis Budenz, one time Communist, who later rejoined the Catholic Church.

The jury's verdict was rendered by Charles Gibson, public school junior engineer, and the charge was read by Court Clerk Paul Leonard.

Four Ballots Taken

Gibson recalled for reporters afterward that four ballots were taken before there was unanimity. He said the jury was for guilty, ten to two, on the first ballot on the question of whether Eisler lied about his Communist affiliations.

The next ballot, Gibson said, was unanimous for guilty on the question of the aliases, and the third ballot was unanimous for guilty on the prior visit. After some discussion, Gibson said, there was agreement on all points.

Eisler was convicted recently for contempt of Congress because he refused to testify before the House Un-American Activities Committee unless he were allowed to make a "three minute" opening statement. He was sentenced to serve a year in jail and pay a $1000 fine. He was freed pending appeal.

As the little balding Communist left Judiciary Square yesterday he said that he was given a "fair trial on an unfair indictment."

He put his arm around his wife, attractive Brunhilde, and said:

"Beautiful. Everything is beautiful. I love Bulgaria."

After the Wellington blast, fire broke out and the mine entrances were bricked up, preventing any attempt to rescue the men.

Some 900 men are employed in the mine, which was closed for years but reopened shortly before World War II.

Drink Ruling To Be Sought

pretation of the local liquor law to be challenged this week.

West startleld the city Monday by ruling that it was legal for minors to drink in District taverns providing the drinks were ordered by, paid for and delivered to an adult.

The ABC board policy since 1934 has been that minors could not drink in taverns and that patrons could not stand up or move around with drinks in their hands.

Payne said the latter policy had never been challenged because no license holder had ever been hailed before the board on charges that customers were allowed to stand up and drink.

"We merely advised all licensees in 1934, as a matter of policy, that waiters or waitresses, rather than customers, should move drinks from table to table," he explained. "We set up that policy believing it was the intent of the law."

West said that up until a few days ago he thought the ban on toting toddies from table to table was a "house rule" imposed by the tavern owners themselves. "It's still a good idea, anyway," he said, "because there would always be the suspicion that a standing drinker might have received his drink illegally."

Trygve Lie, United Nations secretary-general, attending the conference as an observer, told the delegates that their countries came "together not only as American states, with the interests of the New World in common, but also as members of the United Nations, with interests which transcend those of any nations or continent or group of continents."

Lie emphasized that the relationships between conference proceedings and the United Nations was clearly defined in the U. N. Charter and that the American nations "are fully aware of their obligations to the Charter and to the other members of the United Nations and its organs."

At the preliminary session the proposal to support mediation efforts in the Paraguayan civil conflict already initiated by Brazil and Argentina was made by Uruguay. The conference decided to send messages to both sides in the conflict, supporting mediation.

Paraguayan Foreign Minister Frederico Erhavez said he warmly appreciated the goodwill of the conference.

Justo Prieto, described as an observer for the Paraguayan rebel forces, also is atending the conference.

Brazilian Foreign Minister Raul Fernandes was unanimously chosen permanent president of the conference at the preliminary session.

Three committees were chosen at the preliminary meeting to constitute a working staff for the conference:

1. To draft the preamble of the defense treaty "and articles of other disposition," which will include conciliation and arbitration principles.

2. To act on threats and acts of aggression.

3. To work on the process and organization for execution of treaty measures, including voting procedure.

A fourth committee will handle credentials. A fifth committee will coordinate the language of the draft proposals for the final treaty, which will be in four official languages.

Conference sessions are being held at a resort hotel, 45 miles northeast of Rio de Janeiro.

Police Kill Convict In Kitchen Battle

Chain Gang Fugitive Shoots It Out in Apartment Here

An escaped chain gang convict was shot to death in a gun battle with police here yesterday.

The dead man was Henry Thomas, 27, who fled Tuesday from a chain gang at Florence, S. C. The shooting took place at about 6:45 a. m. in the kitchen of an apartment at 4438 E st. se.

Detective Chief Floyd Truscott said local police had been alerted by South Carolina authorities after Thomas' escape. According to information received here, Thomas was overheard to say before his escape that he was going to return to Washington and kill his wife who, he declared, had "double-crossed" him.

According to Truscott, Thomas at about 3 a. m. knocked on the window of the first floor apartment occupied by his wife, Pearl; her mother, Mrs. Inez Trammel, of Lincoln, Va., and a five-year-old nephew of Mrs. Thomas.

Wife Lets Him In

Thomas didn't carry out his threat to kill his wife. After she had let him in, police said, they talked. She left at 4 a. m. for the Supreme Court Building, where she is a charwoman.

A short while later police received a call from an unidentified source, informing them Thomas was in the apartment. Two scout cars from the 11th Precinct, one carrying Pvts. George W. Sebastian and Vernon C. Sanders, and the other carrying Pvts. Jesse W. Ates and James V. Pearson, and a headquarters cruiser containing Detective Sergts. George Cooper and Otto Fuss, sped to the scene.

While Sebastian and Sanders covered the rear, the others rapped at Apartment No. 1. There was no answer. The door was locked. Outside they had observed all the shades were down.

A janitor, William H. Caldwell, 4431 E st. se., let the four policemen into the apartment with a pass key. They found Mrs. Trammel in the rear bedroom with the nephew. She said Thomas was not there.

Pearson and Fuss entered the kitchen and saw Thomas hiding behind the refrigerator. They told him to come out and surrender.

Thomas moved out—fast. He had a revolver in one hand. He shouted: "I've got you covered—back up."

He backed Fuss toward the bedroom and Pearson toward the living room. Pearson tried to jump behind a kitchen door partition and the escaped convict let go a shot. The slug tore through Pearson's shirt sleeve above the wrist.

Thomas Hit 6 Times

Ates, Cooper and Fuss were in the kitchen by this time, firing. Together, the four officers fired 11 shots. Six of the slugs ripped into Thomas' body, one in the head, one in the shoulder, one in the left arm, one in the right hand and two in the chest. Police were not certain whether the convict had fired two or three shots.

The .38-caliber revolver taken from the dead man's hand proved to be one he had wrested from a guard when he escaped from the chain gang.

According to police, Thomas was convicted of housebreaking and larceny in South Carolina early in 1937 and sentenced to 18 months. He escaped in April, 1937, and was at large for 10 years. During that time Thomas and his wife lived in Petersburg, Va., and Washington. He served in the Army and worked in a District clothing store as a porter. The couple rented the apartment, where yesterday's shooting occurred, on May 1.

Arrested as "Peeping Tom"

He was picked up by police here early in July as a "Peeping Tom" suspect. Then it was learned he was a fugitive from South Carolina. He was returned there to complete his sentence.

Deputy Coroner Richard Rosenberg announced an inquest into the death will be held at the morgue today at 11:30 a. m.

Commissioner John Russell Young upon hearing about the gun battle declared the officers "should be commended."

"I'm glad," he said, "to see police are learning how to pull a trigger. When they get up against an armed criminal they ought to be ready to draw."

He said that he did not mean he was approving "indiscriminate shooting" but only that there should be no hesitancy on the part of the policeman when he found himself facing an armed man.

ing" job, it may be performed by consulting the supervisor of the particular building. But Howard O. Akers, assistant superintendent of District buildings, who has his office at the Municipal Center, said:

"I was not asked to provide any laborers for this job."

Akers said usual procedure for such construction would be to ask for an estimate, either from the District Repair Shop or from the Superintendent of District Buildings. As far as he knows, no such estimate was requested in this case.

Happened to Be There

Akers said he had been consulted as to structural changes which might be involved in the work, but the first he knew that the work was being done by policemen, said Akers was when he "happened to be in the basement and saw a wall going up."

"It was already half way up when I saw it, and I reported it to the Municipal Architect's office, but it was too late to do anything about it then," said Akers.

Inspector Thomas said yesterday that the halt in construction work on the jail block will delay the moving of No. 1 Precinct to headquarters. He said that the job now is about 90 per cent complete, and little remains to be done other than putting in a window glass and doing some plastering.

In Interest of District

Thomas explained that the work had been done with policemen because "it was in the interest of District citizens to expedite it."

Howard, one of the men who put the brakes on the job, had other views:

"We're not paying policemen to go out and do our work. If the District Government insists on doing it, we will do everything in our power to have the responsible officials reprimanded or removed from office."

Howard, who called Commissioner Young early yesterday on the jail project, said "we didn't know this was going on until we read it in The Washington Post."

Thomas yesterday conferred with Howard, C. F. Preller, president of the Washington Central Labor Union and J. P. Hillock, of the Building Trades Council.

Thomas, who said the conference was "very amicable," indicated that the union officials had offered to help if the work was of an emergency nature. He explained, however, that the union leaders made no requests that union labor be used on the project. Their objection, he said, was to having policemen rather than ordinary laborers do the work.

Cities giving $13,000 or more included Philadelphia, Kansas City, Chicago, Minneapolis and Atlanta. In the $12,000 range were Boston and Columbus. At San Francisco the house was valued at $10,500.

Two cities reported present prices below June 1946. Columbus said prices had dropped $3000. San Francisco said $2000.

Seattle pointed out that building costs used to be $5 a cubic foot and were now $10 to $12. Columbus reported trends differed widely in various sections of the city and suburban area.

Extremes Presented, Meat Institute Says

Chicago, Aug. 15 (AP).—The American Meat Institute issued a statement on meat prices today in connection with an Associated Press survey of food, clothing and housing prices in 13 principal cities of the United States.

The statement said in part:

"With respect to meat prices, the survey appears to present extremes of high prices found in various cities—and not the average or advertised prices, at which consumers are being offered meat throughout the country considerably below the prices quoted.

Rebel Retreat In Paraguay Is Reported

Buenos Aires, Aug. 15 (AP).—The Paraguayan embassy said tonight that loyalist troops in Paraguay's five-month-old civil war had repulsed an insurgent drive on the capital of Asuncion and now were pursuing a divided rebel force.

The embassy, which said it received its account of the fighting from the government in Asuncion, declared one insurgent column was fleeing southward toward Villeta an danother was retreating eastward toward Remanso Castillo.

(Brazilian dispatches, however, quoted the rebel radio as saying that insurgent troops had occupied the towns of Lambare and Villa Morra on the outskirts of Asuncion and were driving toward the heart of the capital. The broadcast also claimed that all loyalist planes had gone over to the rebel airforce which now was "dominating Asuncion's sky and bombing continuously the military school, government palace and other military objectives.)

Paraguayan refugees reaching Argentina said earlier that fighting for Asuncion was continuing despite the reported arrival of 2500 loyalist reinforcements from the north.

it would be held "in the near future."

The American note, bearing the signature of Secretary of State Marshall, was in reply to a Soviet note of July 22, demanding that preliminary work on the treaty be limited to the four powers. In that note Russia objected to this Nation's step in calling the 11-power conference as a one-sided act.

This Government denied its action was one-sided, since it was taken "merely to ascertain their (the other governments') views on a conference for a Japanese peace settlement." It declared also that there was nothing in the decision at Cairo, Yalta or Potsdam giving the Council of Foreign Ministers authority in connection with a Japanese pact.

The council agreed at Moscow in December, 1945, it pointed out, to establish a Far Eastern Commission, including the 11 governments, to determine occupation policies in Japan.

"It is the view of the United States Government," the note said, "that this action constituted a recognition of the primary interest of these powers in post-surrender policy matters for Japan and hence in the peace settlement.

"Accordingly, the special interest of other Pacific powers in the Japanese settlement requires the governments which compose the Council of Foreign Ministers to recognize that a conference now to consider that settlement even provisionally should be larger in composition than the council.

"Therefore, it is the view of the United States Government that neither the Council of Foreign Ministers nor a council composed of the representatives of the four powers mentioned by the Soviet government is the appropriate body to consider the question of a Japanese peace treaty."

Hidden Nazi

Prince Held After Mother Is Interred

Berlin, Aug. 15 (U.P.).—Prince Ferdinand Carolath-Schoenaich was arrested tonight on charges that he concealed his membership in the Nazi Party in order to get a job as a British chauffeur.

The stepson of Kaiser Wilhelm II was picked up by British and American Army agents a few hours after his mother, Princess Hermine, was buried quietly in suburban Potsdam.

Ferdinand denied the charges. With him was his blonde ex-wife, Rosa Rausch.

The Prince was taken to Wilmersdorf Jail in the British sector.

Nazi membership files showed Ferdinand joined the National Socialists August 1, 1932, before Adolf Hitler came to power.

Earlier in the day Rosa attended the funeral of the Prince's 59-year-old mother. Ferdinand did not go. He said he was afraid to enter the Russian occupation zone.

Relatives who attended the funeral said no autopsy had been performed. Americans had requested Soviet authorities to conduct one. Ferdinand had objected "because of reasons of pity for my name."

Hermine died suddenly August 7 at Frankfurt-on-Oder in a maze of mystery involving alleged teacup poisonings and two million dollars worth of missing German crown jewels. The mysteries of how she died and what happened to the missing jewels remained. The prince said they were stolen from his quarters in the American sector.

Pepper's Choice

A blow to any third party hopes lingering in Mr. Wallace's breast was delivered yesterday by his friend and co-thinker, Senator Pepper. Senator Pepper will support nomination of President Truman and work for his election in 1948. No doubt the Floridan's decision, if he takes the stump vigorously, will be of service in activating the Leftists who, in the absence of a third party, might be tempted to abstain from voting. He is even more effective on the platform than in the Senate—far more effective than Mr. Wallace, who has a strange habit of turning a peroration into an aimless anticlimax. The oratorical Pepper can keep it up, and at the twitch of a groundling's ear can put on as corny a line of demagoguery as there is extant. Moreover, Senator Pepper may get out the vote for Mr. Truman among organized labor, the leaders of whom, according to report, are not likely to be courted by Mr. Truman in the style to which they have become accustomed. Senator Pepper will make up for any such deficiency. All in all, the President seems to have secured quite an ally for his campaign.

By the same token the Republican Party will not be able to count upon the kind of Democratic division which at one time seemed likely. In that event they might have been tempted to put up the sort of organizational compromise that disfigured the 1920 convention. If the Pepper development removes any such possibility, it would have a healthy reaction upon our politics. A party in doubt looks around for a winner; in other words, a personality rather than a puppet. The country in its present role of world leader has need of strength and individualism in the White House.

Spiv-Happy

One of the many interesting concomitants of the British Labor Government's new program of enforced production has been the discovery of the Spivs, who are said to be a very numerous tribe indeed. A Spiv appears to be the modern version of what in the days of the land enclosures and the early poor laws was called a "sturdy beggar." He has been defined as a person with a stronger than ordinary distaste for manly labor and for military service, and who employs a considerable ingenuity in avoiding them both. Thus he finds ways of evading the various forms of registration, of keeping himself supplied with specious identification papers, and of picking up what seems a rather comfortable living by petty trading in the black markets.

Obviously, then, the Spivs are a somewhat undesirable element in a socialist society, especially one that is entering upon its Spartan phase, when the state, so far from "withering away," is seeking to enlarge its powers over the lives and activities of all its subjects. Indeed, Prime Minister Attlee the other day as good as declared war upon the Spivs, saying that in such a society there absolutely is no place for them. The case history of a typical Spiv was cited the other day to a shocked and indignant House of Commons by Mr. George Isaacs, the Minister of Labor. It was that of one Harry Joseph Stevelman, aged 18, who had never registered with his age group. At one time, it appears, he had made a dab at working in a coal mine, but not finding it quite to his liking, had quietly disappeared. Subsequently he turned up in court on one petty charge or another, curiously enough under his own name, but not until the other day did it occur to anybody to connect him with the Harry Joseph Stevelman who was wanted for evading his obligation of national service. By this time, alas, Mr. Stevelman had disappeared again.

And yet it is said that the ordinary Spiv is readily recognizable by his dress and deportment. According to an Associated Press correspondent in London, the typical Spiv wears a British equivalent of a zoot-suit and a necktie that "would startle a Hollywood director." His hair "shines greasily, and his eyes roam constantly "as if on the lookout for customers who want to buy "clothing coupons, hijacked whiskey, smuggled nylons," and so on. What makes the government's job so difficult, apparently, is the astonishing number who fit this description; for the Spivs of Great Britain are now estimated at more than a quarter of a million.

To be sure some of those who have lately developed a kind of romantic nostalgia for the good old days of capitalist exploitation are beginning to say that the government itself is responsible for a multitude of parasitic Spivs in the British body politic. Under a system of laissez faire, free trade, supply and demand and the iron law of wages the Spivs, they argue, would be driven out of the markets into the more circumscribed trades such as pimping and race-track touting where, what with the intensity of competition, the less efficient would soon find themselves broke and hungry and under the cruel necessity of going to work.

Last Of The Viceroys

Disraeli perhaps turned in his grave yesterday when the King of England ceased to be Emperor of India. But he could not fail to have been impressed by the grace with which Viscount Mountbatten discharged his final vice-regal duties. By this time the world knows that the Mountbatten grace is no external thing. It comes from an inner desire to do the right thing. But even such a combination would leave the impression that Mountbatten is merely a nice person. As Americans who have been associated with him know, he is much more than that, having a sense of statesmanship, meaning that he has the initiative of leadership and the confidence to rely upon his decisions. He showed his quality when he cut the Gordian knot in the Hindu-Moslem quarrel. When he arrived in New Delhi, there were two desiderata of British retirement from India. One was the maintenance of the unity of India; the other was the prior working out of a constitution. He acquiesced in partition, and became an advocate of it; today there is India and Pakistan. And a transfer of power to the Indians has taken place while the new constitutions are being framed for India and Pakistan. Mountbatten made the pace, and the Attlee government fell in with his ideas.

The Indians themselves were at first suspicious of the ease with which Lord Mountbatten sponsored the inevitable. Always the Hindus look at the motives of representatives of the British Raj. Was this a sign of divide-and-conquer, asked the Hindus, and soon concluded that it wasn't. We doubt whether any question remains in India of Mountbatten's sincerity. He radiates integrity and good will, and there could be no better augury than this reputation for his future as India's Governor-General (Pakistan will have a Moslem as Governor-General, the head of the Moslem League, Mr. Mohammed Ali Jinnah). To be sure, he will be mainly a figurehead, the representative of the King, to whom the Indians will still give formal allegiance, as the Canadians do, as members of the British Commonwealth. But the length of time that India decides to remain as a copartner of the Commonwealth (and that remains entirely an Indian option) may depend a good deal on Mountbatten's Governor-Generalship. It is a difficult assignment. He will have to be aloof and yet available, and it looks as if the Indians will welcome his availability for counsel in their nursling years. Hindu India is a crazy quilt of diversities which to westerners seem ill-suited to the gestation of political unity. Moreover, the partition itself will yield delicate moments for Hindu and Moslem statesmanship. British diehards paint, of course, a gloomy future for India, and even question its ability to retain its independence, but, as Mr. R. G. Casey has pointed out, conditions under the British Raj would have grown increasingly unmanageable, and Britain showed the wisdom that consists of attention to realities when she liquidated control.

NLRB Appointments

The failure of the Senate to act on the President's nominations for the three new labor board posts created by the Taft-Hartley Act poses an awkward situation for both Mr. Truman and the nominees. The President, having vetoed the act when it was first passed and having then pledged that he would do his utmost to have it administered effectively when Congress overrode his veto, is naturally anxious to set the new law in operation under the best possible auspices. His choice of personnel seemed to us, as we observed in earlier comment, an effort to fulfill his pledge within the limitations imposed upon him by the difficulties of finding willing nominees. He was entitled, we think, to a senatorial acknowledgment on this score which could have been expressed only through confirmation. Now he has no way of knowing that his nominees will be deemed satisfactory by the Senate.

The uncertainty is no less mischievous from the point of view of the nominees themselves. They must relinquish their present connections and set to work at an arduous task from which they may be removed before they have fairly begun. Already objections have been expressed in respect of at least one of them in the Senate, and they cannot guess how much weight these objections may gather during the recess. Moreover, they can scarcely escape the fear that a partisan desire to embarrass the President in an election year may lead the Senate to oust them merely because they were put in office without its express consent. If, on the other hand, they had declined the recess appointments, the President, who selected them after an exhaustive canvass, would have been hard put to it to finds substitutes of equal caliber.

In all these circumstances, it seems to us that the President had every right to make the appointments and to interpret the Senate's silence as assent. Certainly the prevailing reaction on the Hill appeared to be approval. And only the threat of protracted debate by a couple of dissidents at a time when the Senate was desperately eager to adjourn prevented confirmation. Indeed, an attempt to deny them salaries if they served prior to confirmation, was voted down. The Senate's negligence, in our opinion, ended its moral right to reverse a presidential action dictated by his desire to see the law promptly and effectively carried into execution.

Helping Italy

The billion dollar benefit (mainly in debt cancellation) accorded to Italy after long negotiation with the Lombardo mission will, we hope, come as solace to the Italian people for the peace treaty which their government has just ratified. With some of these provisions we ourselves could not agree. But on no other terms was it possible to gain Russia's signature. Even now Moscow has held up ratification, on the grounds, no doubt, that the last argument against the admission of Italy to the United Nations would fall to the ground. It is to be hoped that the Italians are made fully aware of this impediment. In Italy the Russians use more resources, and have many more facilities open to them through the Italian Communists, in misstating their attitude. The truth is that Mr. Byrnes injured his own health in struggling to give Italy a greater recognition for the co-belligerency which did so much to redeem her war record under Mussolini.

Italy's contribution to the peace is likely still further to insure her passage back into the family of peace-loving nations. Count Sforza, her Foreign Minister, is playing the part of a gadfly in the councils of cooperative Europe. He has a nicer appreciation of what is required from Europe for American consideration than any other statesman. Bevin and Morrison in England and Bidault in France keep talking about the compunction which the United States is under to finance Europe. Sforza warns Europe that unless the European plan has real substance, the United States might retreat into "a disconsolate and sterile isolationism." Sforza knows whereof he speaks. During his long years of exile, he came to know America intimately, and with that knowledge can help his colleagues in other countries to understand what America is driving at. What he says ought to be heeded carefully. In addition, he is one of the statesmen of old Europe, and knows what is meant by the working economy for Europe that we are seeking at the minimum to reestablish.

Italy is already seeking to put its country in shape to be knit into any European pattern that emerges out of the Marshall Plan. It is not a rich country. But it is more wealthy than most of the European nations in the vitality of its people. Italian manpower can thus play a great role in restoring European production. So can Italian waterpower, and one of the projects under discussion is a four-power hydroelectric plan in the Alps. This, of course, could not be effectuated for many years, but the proposal gives some idea of the daring of Sforza's mind. Sforza knows that integration across national lines is the condition alike of European survival and American aid. With Premier Spaak of Belgium and Jean Monnet of France, he inspires confidence that western Europe will rise to its opportunity. The new deal with Italy is one way of encouraging Sforza to keep up his effort to build a new Europe.

Joint Investigation

Senator Ferguson's preference for a new joint congressional committee to carry on the investigation into war contracts must be regarded as further acknowledgment that the Brewster committee has failed. Criticism of the committee has become so extensive and so pointed that he would doubtless like to have the House share the responsibility for any future operations. Apparently Senator Ferguson had spoken some months ago of turning over this investigative task to a joint committee, but the revival of that talk at this moment directly indicates a desire to get out from under the censure that the present committee has brought upon itself.

We agree with the Michigander that a joint committee is indicated. At the same time we are strongly convinced that it should be a joint committee chosen from and responsible to the House and Senate Committees on the Armed Services. In other words, the whole obligation of the investigation should be put into the hands of the standing committees which have control over legislation in this field. The Washington Post strongly emphasized the desirability of this course at the time the present special committee was set up. The committee structure of Congress had been reorganized. No place was left for separate investigating bodies lacking legislative powers. Indeed, the basic theory on which this transformation was effected requires that whenever an investigation is found to be necessary and desirable it shall be conducted by the committee which has responsibility for shaping legislation in that particular sphere. Only in this way can duplication of effort and irresponsible fishing expeditions be avoided.

There would be another advantage, of course, in having the inquiry into war contracts shifted to the Armed Services Committees. The actual investigating would doubtless be assigned to a subcommittee with equal representation from each parent body. If such a subcommittee should run amuck, the chairmen of the full committees or the full committees themselves could step in to get the investigators back on the right track once more. As it is, the special committee which has made a mess of its aircraft investigation has been a law unto itself. It failed to inject the disciplines essential to a fair and thorough inquiry and then belatedly postponed further hearings in response to public criticism. Certainly Congress ought to have better control of its investigative machinery than was demonstrated in this case. And the direct way of acquiring such control is to make the standing committees responsible for all investigations in their respective fields.

Judicial Legislation

The portal-to-portal case and the Packard foremen case clearly show the danger of legislation by judges, particularly in administrative law. These cases also prove that the interpretative power of the Supreme Court as to the intent of Congress does not provide the safeguard we need. The root of the trouble in arbitrary interpretation of statutes lies in the fact that many laws are loosely drawn and badly written, or do not provide definite standards for their practical application.

The Robinson-Patman Act is another case in point. I submit that the more Government intervenes in business or in the relationship between employers and workers, the more it becomes vital that the intent of Congress should be unmistakable. We had a foretaste of the consequences which might ensue for the country if we leave the interpretation of administrative law to narrow legalistic thinking. Nobody can deny that when the Supreme Court decides by a 5-to-4 vote as to the interpretation of a law, it is legislating.

In the portal-to-portal mess it was easy to arouse public opinion and Congress because the consequences to the country were too far-reaching. In the foremen case the remedy has been provided by the new labor law. But what remedy has business in the case of arbitrary interpretations of courts in cases like the Robinson-Patman Act, which is reputedly a badly and loosely written law? The Federal Trade Commission has issued against Arden a cease and desist order which amounts to outlawing demonstrators. This decision has been reached by a tortuous and specious interpretation of the Robinson-Patman Act.

It seems to me that the Taft-Hartley law has wisely provided for the creation of a permanent joint congressional committee which will study the operation of the law and recommend legislative remedies whenever they prove necessary. The idea is a sound one and Congress should create such standing committees for all existing administrative laws. Furthermore, something ought to be done so that all administrative statutes are written as clearly as humanly possible.

Ambassador Koo

In The Washington Post of August 13 under the title "To the Lion's Den," there appeared an article by Mrs. Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer about Ambassador and Mme. V. K. Wellington Koo. May I point out that many of the statements or stories reported in the article are either incorrect or untrue, including, for example, the following:

1. That Madame Koo had refused to lend the Embassy grounds for the recent China relief drive. No request had ever been made to her for this purpose, although she would have been glad to accede to it, as was done last year to accommodate similar organizations, such as the United Nations Club, and will be done again this September.

2. That Dr. Wellington Koo had once disguised himself as a peasant woman in order to escape to safety. Presumably this refers to the time when he was obliged to leave Peking as the result of a political coup d'etat in the ancient capital some 20 years ago. But he never had to resort to disguise at any time.

3. That Madame Koo had purchased Shanghai's two most luxurious hotels, the Cathay and the Cathay Mansions. No such purchase was made or ever contemplated.

These are mere examples of the inaccuracy of the article in question. It is clear from the article, however, that the statements and stories told therein were based upon gossip or hearsay, and were not intended even by the writer herself as true facts. In the interest of truth, I venture to write to you and to request the courtesy of your columns to publish these few lines.

"French Fears"

I read in an editorial ("French Fears," published July 27) quoted from your paper in the European edition of the New York Herald Tribune this statement:

"It is understandable in a way that a fear of German militarism is still deep in the French soul."

Permit me to say that yes, "in a way," it is!

A little further on I read:

"One way to allay that fear is for France to sign the 40-year treaty governing German militarism that America already has offered!"

But why should France believe that such a treaty would last 40 years, or even four? We broke the promise of security we made her in 1918. We have just reversed ourselves on the question of how to treat Germany, only two years after Potsdam!

National Theater

The lessee of the National Theater seems to think that he is acting in conformity with the wishes of the majority of the theater's patrons when he insists on excluding Negroes.

I am wondering just how he arrived at that conclusion. I am a fairly constant patron of the theater, and I have never been asked whether I would continue being a patron if the exclusion policy were reversed.

Why not make certain that the present policy actually represents the viewpoint of those who pay money for seats?

Why not take a vote?

Pass out to the audiences small cards on which the help of the audience is requested in deciding the question. Word the statements simply and directly: "——— I will continue attending the National Theater if Negroes are admitted." "——— I will not attend the National Theater if Negroes are admitted."

This will take time, of course. But a whole year is available before the proposed Equity prohibition goes into effect. Surely it is better to know, rather than assume, that the National Theater will go on the rocks financially if the present policy is reversed.

On the other hand, if the vote is for a continuation of the present policy, then the place for coals of fire is not the head of the lessee but the minds and hearts of the legitimate theater audiences in Washington.

Communist Program In Hungary

Recently I received a letter from Dr. Kolomano Kalocsay, a physician on the staff of the Budapest hospital for infectious diseases. A portion of Dr. Kalocsay's letter, which touches on the tangled political situation of the hour, appears instructive for us in America:

"In your last letter you touched upon the note of politics. I must say that you are not rightly informed about our circumstances. With us there has occurred no revolution, and that "street battles" or "battles over barricades" have occurred in Budapest, we, the people of Budapest, have learned only out of your too well-informed newspapers—which are diligently read by us here; for they penetrate without hindrance through the "iron curtain." But I must observe that by such falsehoods they greatly fall to increase their reputation with the Hungarian public.

"What did occur among us? The Communist Party proposed the nationalization of the three largest Hungarian banks. The party of the Small Landholders, or rather their leaders, were strongly against this. The Small Landholders themselves demanded the nationalization, held popular gatherings and sent resolutions to their contingent in Parliament. By this means the 'left wingers' among the leadership of the party were strengthened and accomplished the fall of Prime Minister Nagy, about whom they also had information that he shared in a plot against the Hungarian democracy.

"The crisis, accordingly, was not a crisis of the nation but a crisis within the Small Landholders Party. It is true that the Communist Party touched off this explosion from without by the proposal for nationalization of the banks, but that occurred completely in accord with the rules of the game in a democracy.

"Altogether, we do not look upon our Communist Party in the same way that you look on yours. Since our liberation, every good initiative—agrarian reform, rebuilding of factories and bridges and communications, ending of inflation, a three-year plan, etc.—has come from that party. Even the conservatives recognize that without that motive force our country would not find itself in such a condition that the Austrians, for example, are sadly envious of us.

"Of course all this seems to you hardly credible. Perhaps you think that I am commissioned or even compelled to write this. Against such an opinion there is nothing I can do, except to insist that it is the absolute truth. The Communists in our midst do not wish to incite rebellion. During the most wretched times, when the workers were destitute of food and destitute of clothing, they issued this slogan, 'With all our might for rebuilding the fatherland,' and in spite of the danger that they would become unpopular, they urged the workers to diligence and patience.

"They initiated the so-called 'village visitations.' Communist labor groups went each Sunday to the villages, and there, without pay, they reconstructed bridges, wells, schoolhouses and churches, repaired plows, harrows and other implements of the country folk. In my hospital, by 'stormlabor' outside of working hours, they have constructed a house for cultural purposes, have built a chapel and a bell tower. And now the Communist Party has worked out the three-year plan, according to which, inside of three years, by the planned rebuilding of industry and agriculture, we can attain a standard of living above that preceding the war—by our own efforts, without any foreign loan.

"As you see, people here are working feverishly. Our sole anguish is, that we shall not be allowed to work, but somebody will explode a war.

"Pray believe that the people among us are enjoying such freedom as never before. During the semi-Fascist regime of Horthy, if three country folk got together in some village with the most innocent purpose, soon the gendarmes would appear and stop it. Now the country folk swarm at their gatherings and freely discuss their affairs. Only the Fascists do not have freedom, but do they deserve it? They would use their freedom for the destruction of freedom—as occurred in Germany in the time between the wars."

What's Right With Teaching

By Malvina Lindsay

New Career Chance

TEACHERS HAVING won part of their battle for decent wages and human liberty, are now trying to forestall two dangers growing out of their achievements.

One is that a whining, down-trodden "poor me" type of teacher may become too prevalent as a result of the widely advertised plight of the teaching profession. The other is that as salaries improve persons unfit for teaching may enter the field from mercenary motives.

Hence educational leaders are scouring the country to find superior young people who can be induced to train with pride and enthusiasm for the opportunities teaching presents. The recruiting campaign of the National Education Association, begun last spring in 5000 communities, is already showing encouraging results. This fall it will be extended throughout the country.

The present campaign is also to discourage the unfit from teaching. Eventually it is hoped all the unhappy teachers who hate their schoolrooms will find greener pastures. Also on the unwanted list are those who enter teaching by accident or from expediency, those who see their jobs as stopgaps to marriage or other vocations, or as an easy and genteel way of making a living, and those who do not like people, particularly children.

THE SEARCH for raw teacher material is going on in the high schools, even in the grades. For the teachers conducting it realize they cannot continue successfully their fight for better wages and working conditions unless they can point to an oncoming teaching force worthy of the rewards sought.

It is a little easier now to sell a promising high school graduate on a teaching career than formerly. This fall teachers of the country will receive about 350 million dollars more in salaries than a year ago. The minimum salary standard of $2400 for a four-year college graduate is gaining ground. In nearly half of the States it has become an official educational goal, and several have adopted it legally. Also social recognition of teachers is improving.

The recently adopted teachers' bill of rights by the National Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards holds promise for teachers' future. It provides salary schedules ranging from $2400 to $6000, a maximum of 25 children in any class, a maximum of 44 hours a week, greater participation of teachers in developing school programs, adequate tenure and retirement laws.

TEACHING is now one of the few professions not overcrowded. It is not likely to be for many years because of the huge baby production the war encouraged. John W. Studebaker, Commissioner of Education, predicts that by the time today's freshmen are graduated, American schools will be needing at least 100,000 newly-trained teachers each year. Other talking points in favor of teaching are its long vacations and, in many schools, sick leave and pensions.

Recruiters of prospective teachers often find their most telling points with the young concern the intangible values that go with teaching—such as its opportunity for mental growth and expansion of personality and its influence on human lives, and indirectly on the course of nations. Many young people respond to the idea that teaching offers them a way to make their lives count to the fullest. A growing number see teaching as the best answer to the challenge presented by the preamble of UNESCO: "Since wars begin in the minds of men, it is in the minds of men that the defenses of peace must be constructed."

The recruiters still have to admit to their prospects that their battle to bring teaching the recognition it deserves has not yet been won. But they try to show them it is a cause worth getting in and fighting for, since it is the final answer to the question: "What can I do?" that both young and grown-ups are asking in their present desperation over the world's confusion and conflict.

Memorable Autograph

Of historical and romantic associations and highly desirable and appropriate for permanent preservation and public display in the National Museum at Washington is a pane of glass in the large drawing room of a grand old mansion in Albany County, N. Y., about two miles south of Schenectady.

On that pane may be discerned, at close view, two signatures, scratched into the glass. They were written there more than 158 years ago by Alexander Hamilton, famous initial Secretary of the Treasury, and his fiancee, the daughter of New York's noted Governor Schuyler.

As an engaged couple and while invited guests at the home, only about five miles eastward from the Schuyler home in Albany, they wrote their names with the solitaire diamond of the prospective bride's engagement ring.

When I was briefly a guest (in 1922) at that spacious old mansion, it was and long had been the home of a member of the Stanford family, a quietly dignified gentleman then past 80. He was a near relative of Leland Stanford, Republican Governor of California early in the Civil War, later United States Senator and founder of Stanford University. My aged host took me into the large drawing room. He indicated one window near the middle. There I quickly saw plainly visible, the two memorable signatures.

Such a record of such a destiny-wished young couple should not be left to oversight, accident, destruction. The people of the Nation, nowadays and through generations ahead, should see it.

Conference At Rio

By Barnet Nover

Harmony In A Divided World

In a world as confused, distraught and divided as ours is, the spectacle presented by the republics of the Western Hemisphere as their representatives confer at Rio de Janeiro is immensely comforting.

NOVER

Of course, it would be a gross exaggeration to say that a state of perfect harmony obtains among the 21 republics. That is simply not true.

In some parts of Latin America echoes of old fears and suspicions of the United States as the "Colossus of the North" can still be heard. The Communists are doing their best to keep those fears and suspicions from dying out.

The scars of ancient feuds, such as that over Tacna-Arica, have not altogether healed. Almost every one of the Latin-American nations is suffering from economic dislocations aggravated when not produced by the war and some are suffering acutely. The tendency in certain places is to blame the United States or at least look to this country for succor that may not come or prove adequate.

There are certain immediate issues, such as the question of Nicaragua and the problems arising out of the Paraguayan civil war, which may tend to divide the Rio conferees.

TAKING ALL these things into account, it can still fairly be said that there is more harmony at Rio than was to be found at any other international conference held during recent years.

Few doubt that the conference will achieve its intended purpose, namely, draw up a treaty of mutual defense to which the nations of the Americas will subscribe.

This will mean completing the task undertaken at Chapultepec in 1945. It will mean putting the capstone on the arch of hemisphere solidarity which has been a century and a quarter in the building.

The Treaty of Rio de Janeiro which is expected to result from the present deliberations will bind the nations of the New World together in a security system designed to mobilize the full weight of the 21 republics against aggression from within or without.

THE IMPORTANCE of such a development is not to be discounted. It must also not be exaggerated.

Upon his arrival at Rio, Secretary of State George C. Marshall described the conference as one designed to help "consolidate the peace of the world."

Taken literally, this gives the Rio conference a significance it simply does not have and cannot achieve.

It is wholly desirable, of course, to set up barriers within the hemisphere so that war among the American nations will henceforth become impossible. It is equally desirable to link the nations of the New World together in such a way as to make the defense of every one of them the concern of all. Whether such an arrangement can in and of itself discourage future aggressors is far from certain, however.

IN THE LAST analysis, the defense of the Americas depends on the force which the most powerful of American nations—the United States—can put into the scales.

If this country remains strong this hemisphere is certain to be free of aggression. If it is weak the combined strength of all the republics may, under existing conditions, be inadequate.

Certainly, no aggressor intent on knocking out the kingpin of the inter-American combination would seek to do so by attacking and seizing regions remote from continental United States. The attack is sure to be sudden, direct and overwhelming. The route of such an attack is far more likely to be across the roof of the world rather than via the South Atlantic or even the Caribbean.

The chief significance of the hemisphere security pact, then, will be far more psychological and political than military. Indeed, inter-American harmony can suffer rather than prosper if too great an emphasis is placed on purely military cooperation.

The role which armed bodies have only too often played in the politics of Latin-American nations in the past makes it essential that nothing be done, even in the sacred name of security, which encourages ambitious military leaders to use the forces placed in their keeping to seize and retain power.

Tom Clark's Rabbit Hunt

BEFORE YOU make your stew, you must first catch your rabbit. That is an ancient bit of advice that politicians too often conveniently ignore.

Childs

With a great fanfare of publicity, Attorney General Tom C. Clark has announced a campaign of criminal prosecution against those who conspire to increase the price of food, clothing and shelter. He has captured the headlines but whether he will capture anything more substantial is a question.

Clark in particular has a habit of advertising his stew before he has even begun to chase the rabbit through the tall grass. He makes many speeches and is frequently photographed doing conspicuous good deeds. In cynical Washington the common explanation for this behavior is that Clark wants to be the vice presidential candidate on the Democratic ticket next year.

One can wish the Attorney General the best luck in the world in his drive on profiteers. Certainly relief from high prices is what most Americans want above everything else. But if he is going to put everyone in jail who helped to force prices up, we are going to need a lot more jails.

What is more, if Clark looks around suddenly at a Cabinet meeting, he is likely to find a culprit or two within arm's length. Two fundamental errors of the Truman Administration contributed to the upward spiral of prices immediately after the war's end.

One was the repeal of the excess profits tax. The other was the removal of wage controls and the encouragement of labor in demanding additional pay. It would be hard to say which move did the most damage.

REPEAL OF the excess profits tax, in the face of the vast consumer demand after four years of war, made possible the swollen profits reported by most large corporations in recent months. For the corporations those profits are decidedly a mixed blessing. They have been used by union leaders as the background for a demand for higher wages and lower prices.

At the time the repeal was proposed, there was a kind of conspiracy of silence. Almost the only leader of stature to speak against it was Bernard M. Baruch, who foresaw plainly what such a move would mean.

Higher wages have contributed to higher prices. While you can argue whether this has been the principal cause of the price rise, no one can deny that it is a major factor. In the vicious upward see-saw, wages may have kept a little bit ahead. The statistical experts show that the race has been close during the past year and a half.

But the plain, unvarnished fact is that almost no one, of whatever political party or whatever economic group, is guiltless in connection with the price spiral. The unorganized, the old who live on pensions or small savings, have had least to do with it and they have suffered most.

THERE ARE very real limits on what Clark can actually do. He talks about invoking the anti-trust laws against those guilty of collusion in price rises, curtailment of output or restriction of capacity expansion.

That is a large order. It must be measured against the fact that successful antitrust prosecution can occur only in a climate of opinion sympathetic to it. As head of the antitrust division of the Justice Department, Thurman Arnold considered it one of his duties to try to create a favorable climate. He was able to dramatize the issue of monopoly, whether in industry or in labor, versus competition. In the years since he left the Department of Justice, opinion has shifted. No one with the same force and zeal has come along to show what the stakes are.

So long as we can have competition we are not too badly off. The question, as has been pointed out often in this space, is how much competition is left in our country.

We will get plenty of political speeches about high prices between now and November, 1948. It looks as though inflation might be the chief political football next year, but the speeches will have little effect on what you and I pay for a loaf of bread.

Nagy Urges Hungarians Not to Vote

By The Associated Press

Exiled Ferenc Nagy, with direct State Department help, implored his Hungarian countrymen last night to boycott a forthcoming election and fight "international communism" through an international coalition of democrats.

The former Premier, ousted by a Communist coup, asked and got permission to beam his appeal to Hungary over the State Department's "Voice of America" radio facilities.

Nagy said there is a "political dimout now enveloping Hungary," that freedoms have been suppressed, the democratic Parliament dissolved and workers "rendered defenseless against Communist slavery."

Tells of Work

But he broadcast to "My Dear Hungarian Brothers" assurances that he already has established ties with leaders of other forcibly dissolved Peasant Parties of southeastern Europe" with the hope of building a "new and real democracy."

Nagy did not go so far as to suggest any possibility of an eventual uprising against Russian domination.

But he did remark that Hungary had become a "satellite" before she could even regain complete independence and asked:

"Is it really too late for action now?"

Vote Set for August 31

The Communists have called new national elections in Hungary for August 31.

Nagy previously had announced here that he is working with former Yugoslav and Bulgarian officials to build up a Peasant Party coalition against the Reds. He said some exiles of the Polish Peasant Party also had been consulted.

Gen. Bradley Sails for Europe; Will Probe Lee's Rule in Italy

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Gen. Omar N. Bradley will investigate reports of abuse of enlisted men and dissatisfaction among troops under Lieut. Gen. John C. H. Lee in Italy, the War Department announced yesterday.

Bradley, now Veterans' Administrator, is expected to succeed Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as Army Chief of Staff when the latter resigns to become head of Columbia University early next year.

Press reports have pictured Lee, American military administrator in Italy, as living "like a king," with privileges promised by the Army to enlisted men almost entirely abolished.

The War Department also stated that last February General Lee indicated he would "like to return to the United States and shortly thereafter would request his retirement." The announcement said Lee's return was delayed pending action on the Italian peace treaty.

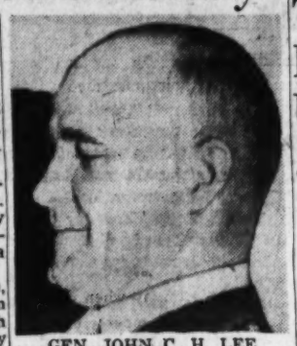
Meantime in Rome, Lee told newsmen that any reply to press criticism of his administration in Italy would have to come from the War Department.

Lee made his statement just after he emerged from a private audience with Pope Pius XII at the Pope's private summer residence at Castel Gandolfo, near Rome.

Efforts of press association photographers to take pictures of Lee's special train in which he traveled to the audience with the Pope were stopped by the army on the grounds that the train was the property of the Italian government, and official permission would have to be secured.

Bradley sailed for Europe from New York yesterday.

Press reports of Lee's high living in Italy, and charges of waste of taxpayers' money, brought a flurry of public complaints about Lee's earlier activities in Europe.



GEN. JOHN C. H. LEE
He will have a visitor

At Birmingham, Ala., the Rev. Hal Bennett, Baptist clergyman and former chaplain, charged that a battle-wounded sergeant was kept waiting for two hours in an ambulance on the Cherbourg pier waiting for Lee to decorate him.

Later the general cited the work of certain colonels, said Bennett, who is assistant editor of the Alabama Baptist Weekly.

"These are the kind of men," Bennett quoted Lee as saying, "whom you wouldn't mind following to hell."

The minister said he felt like paraphrasing the quote to: "These are the kind of men you'd like to see in hell."

Sorensen to Investigate

New York, Aug. 15 (U.P.).—Max H. Sorensen, national commander of the Catholic War Veterans, was en route to Europe today to inquire into charges that United States soldiers in Italy are being mistreated.

Torture Used In Romania, U. S. Charges

The State Department yesterday charged the Soviet-dominated government of Romania with "third degree" tortures of opposition political leaders.

A department spokesman said these methods had been reported by Roy M. Melbourne, U. S. political representative at Bucharest. It was stressed that voluminous additional information exists to support charges that hundreds of Peasant Party and other opposition leaders were mistreated in jails and concentration camps.

Two formal official United States protests against suppression of civil liberties in Romania as a violation of the new peace treaties have been filed without effect. Other protests have been filed against Communist tactics in Hungary and Bulgaria.

Delaying Tactics Seen

The official view here is that Communists in these three countries are hastening to secure their control while Russia delays final ratification of the peace treaties.

Reports on conditions in Romania which have reached the State Department said that:

1. Nearly 2000 persons arrested under the regime of Premier Groza are held under "inhuman" conditions in prisons and concentration camps with the apparent purpose of exterminating them.

2. Despite government denials of mistreatment, numerous protests have been addressed by prisoners and their families to foreign powers. In the Pitesti concentration camp alone some 225 appealed to the four-power Allied Control Commission for Romania.

3. Hundreds have been crowded into tiny cells have been forced to sleep on floors, denied medical treatment even for typhus and typhoid, and fed a diet of only 400 to 500 calories a day, less than half the minimum needed by inactive persons.

Opposition Expelled

The roundup of the last elements opposing the Communist government has been going on for two months. Among those jailed are Juliu Maniu, president of the National Peasant Party; J. C. Bratianu, head of the National Liberal Party and Tite Pitrescu, president of the Independent Social Democratic Party. All remaining opposition deputies were expelled last week from the Parliament, leaving a one-party legislature, as in Russia.

After reports of mistreatment had been brought to the attention of the Soviet head of the Allied Control Commission last May, an investigation was made. It was, however, made by the Romanian Minister of Internal Affairs after a Soviet spokesman intimated he would consider any action by the commission to be "interference."

The Romanian government subsequently reported that prisoners were not suffering from harsh treatment and that they were permitted to receive limited supplies of clothing, medicine and food from relatives. These claims were contradicted by evidence from many prisoners and by the appeal from the Pitesti camp.

Food Called Key to Peace By Marshall

By The Associated Press

Secretary of State Marshall says lack of food is slowing down world reconstruction and "strengthening the hands of those opposed to the democracy of free governments."

"Every humane, economic and world political interest of the United States indicates that we should do what is within our power to assist in overcoming this evil state of affairs," he said in a radio broadcast recorded for NBC before he left for Rio de Janeiro.

Appealing for added efforts to meet the "urgent demands" of the hungry, Marshall called for increased production by American farmers and exertion of "every energy" by manufacturers and distributors to move the foodstuffs to the ports.

"Let us as Americans," he said, "be truly grateful to a bountiful providence which has blessed us with plenty for ourselves and given us the means of helping others. Let us never forget that all over the world today millions of our fellow men will be praying with desperate appeal, 'give us this day our daily bread.'"

Marshall said Americans "want a prosperous world. We know that the sooner the countries of Europe and Asia can get back on their feet, the sooner the need for special relief from the United States will cease. We must realize that the United Nations cannot hope to retain even the present level of prosperity in a degenerate world."

Taylor Again on Way to Rome For Conference With Pope

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

President Truman announced late yesterday that Myron C. Taylor again was on the way to Rome as his "personal representative" to confer with Pope Pius XII.

Taylor

He said that Taylor would talk to the Pope—and to "other leaders" in Europe—on problems relative to the establishment of peace under a moral world order and to alleviation of human suffering that continues in many parts of the world.

Mr. Truman's statement did not identify the other European leaders that Taylor plans to see.

Ever since the war ended in Europe, Mr. Truman has been under pressure to put an end to the mission given Taylor by the late Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1940. This pressure has come from clergymen representing virtually every large Protestant denomination, who have contended that the mission violated the American constitutional principle of separation of church and state.

The resolutions of protest sometimes have referred to Taylor as an unofficial ambassador to the Vatican. It was noted yesterday that President Truman's statement made no mention of the Vatican.

Taylor, an Episcopalian, last visited Rome in November of 1946 for a stay of less than a month.

In June last year, a group of Protestant churchmen called on President Truman to protest against the retention of an ambassador to the Pope. Dr. John A. MacLean, a Presbyterian pastor of Richmond, Va., later said that Mr. Truman had assured the group that Taylor's mission "might terminate at an early date but would certainly terminate with the signing of the peace treaties."

President Truman, asked about this at a news conference, said that Taylor would continue as his personal representative to the Pope until world peace was achieved.

Taylor took off from La Guardia Field in New York yesterday at 4:10 p. m. The White House made public President Truman's statement a short time later. It follows:

"At my request the Hon. Myron C. Taylor is proceeding to Rome as my personal representative for further exchanges of views with His Holiness Pope Pous XII, on problems relative to the establisment of peace under a moral world order to the the alleviation of the human suffering still continuing in many parts of the world. Mr. Taylor has also been asked to hold conversations with other leaders on similar problems while he is in Europe.

"The purpose of these further conversations, as on earlier occasions, its to gather for my guidance and assistance various views and impressions concerning existing conditions affecting peace and the relief of distress, and to obtain the energetic cooperation of all men and women of good will, whether in religion, in government, or in other activities of life, in the interest of progress toward solution of these problems.

"I am seeking by this means a greater clarification of the nature of the vital tasks that confront each of the nations that have pledged themselves to cooperate in the establishment and maintenance of international peace and security and to promote economic and social advancement. I wish to have the benefit of the constructive views and suggestions of leaders everywhere, to the end that the thought and action of the United States as to world affairs may contribute to that moral world order of peace and security and well-being for which we and the other United Nations struggled to victory in World War II."

But shells from Patterson's shotgun killed Constable Coleman McAteer and Deputy Sheriff Oscar Adams had his right arm shattered. Depression Strikes Safecracking Trade

New York, Aug. 15 (U.P.).—The days of Jimmie Valentine are over.

"No luck again." (Signed) "The Crooks."

"Dear Crooks: dont' waste your time. We never keep anything valuable in the safe. Every time you break the tumbler it costs me $350 to fix it."

Press Wireless Files Deferred Pay Plan

New York, Aug. 15 (U.P.).—Press Wireless, Inc., a domestic and international communications organization, today asked the U. S. District Court for its approval of a deferred payment plan for its creditors. The petition asked that Press Wireless, Inc., be permitted to continue operations pending the court's approval.

The organization, which is owned jointly by a group of American newspapers and press associations, said it had liabilities of $1,205,946.27 and assets of $1,832,218. 73 as of July 15.

Soviet Zone States Oppose Truman Plan

By Daniel De Luce

Belgrade, Aug. 15 (AP).—Six months of the Truman Doctrine, as viewed from pro-Soviet Belgrade, has nearly liquidated American influence in countries of the Soviet zone in southeastern Europe.

It has closed the ranks of the border states which depend on Russia's confidence for their security. It has engulfed the little, war-weary peoples in fear that another war is almost inevitable.

It has been the excuse, valid or not, for rubbing out a minimum of right-wing representation in governmental affairs. It has been used to charge America with protecting those who would take back land that had been given to impoverished peasants, restore industries to foreign capitalists, and drive the left underground.

The troubles in Greece, according to opinion in this part of Europe, is now the responsibility of the United States State Department. The Greek campaign against the left is taken by the left elsewhere as a possible precent for future action against the right.

To the border states, the measure of American motives is the conduct of the monarchy in Athens. There is obvious dread that the Greek civil war may endanger the continent.

I have been talking to Communists in Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Yugoslavia this summer, and I could discover no war fever in any of them. If they accurately reflect Communist leadership in Moscow, then there is also no war fever there.

I talked, too, with many citizens of these countries who were not Communists, loved Russia not at all, and were, by birth and training, accustomed to looking westward.

These non-Communists, some of them former visitors in the United States and most of them with relatives there, were as scathing as the Communists in attacking the Truman Doctrine because, they said, it had needlessly widened the breach between Washington and Moscow.

What was really upsetting to an American was their common question: Is America seeking war? Apparently enough public utterances are made in the United States, and widely quoted abroad, to stir that doubt.

Their comment was that west and east are facing a "winter of decision." If the foreign ministers fail again in London, so ran their thought, "it will be all over but choosing sides."

Bulldozers Help Check Forest Fire in Reich

Frankfurt, Germany, Aug. 15 (U.P.).—Army bulldozers cleared lanes through thick fir trees today to assist fighters check a raging forest fire 50 yards away from the biggest American Air Forces ammunition depot in Europe.

The fire burned out an estimated three square miles across the road from the giant Rheim-Main airfield, near Frankfurt, before 500 American, German and displaced persons employes brought it under control.

Soviet Break With Greece Believed Near

Athens, Aug. 15 (AP).—Neutral diplomatic observers said today that both Russia and Yugoslavia apparently wanted to break off relations with Greece before any Communist government was formed along the northern borders.

The observation came as Russia awaited a reply to a protest to the Greek government that Greek authorities had "been arresting and even subjecting to torture persons employed by the Soviet embassy" here.

(A Tass dispatch from Athens, broadcast by the Russians and intercepted last night by the Soviet Monitor in London, said the Soviet Charge d'Affaires in the Greek capital had protested that such actions as the Greeks were accused of "were incompatible with the maintenance of diplomatic relations between Greece and the Soviet Union."

Citizenship Unspecified

(The dispatch said that the arrests and tortures had extended to "other Soviet institutions in Greece" in addition to the embassy. It did not make clear, however, whether the persons affected by the alleged actions were Soviet citizens, Greeks or persons of some other nationality.)

An informed Soviet source in Athens said that Nicholas Tchernicheff, Russian Charge d'Affaires, hard delivered a sharp verbal protest to Panayotis Pipinellis, Greek undersecretary of foreign affairs, August 6. Pipinellis issued a formal denial August 9 that any protest had been made but said the following day there had been a discussion with the Soviet representative in connection with alleged discrimination against employes of the Soviet Embassy and "spying" on members of the Russian Diplomatic Corps.

Yugoslavs Depart

Serif Sehovic, Yugoslav Charge d'Affaires, with his secretary, Dimitri Jocanovic, and the secretary's wife Vozasa Jacanovic, left Athens Wednesday aboard a Greek commercial airplane for Salonika. The Greek Foreign Ministry said today the Yugoslav party was still in the northern Greek city but was expected to leave within a couple of days for Belgrade. Their departure left only one person in the Yugoslav Legation here. Yugoslavia has been represented in Athens by a Charge d'Affaires since her minister, Dr. Isidore Cankar, departed unexpectedly last fall.

George Aristidou, member of the Greek Parliament, said at Salonika that Mrs. Jacanovic had created a disturbance during the flight and that police had been called to meet the plane at the Salonika airport to prevent a possible demonstration.

The War Assets Administration yesterday offered about 15 million dollars worth of surplus telephone and telegraph equipment for sale. The sales are being conducted from the Army general depot at Ogden, Utah, and the War Assets warehouse in Philadelphia.

The Gallup Poll

Union Rank and File Found In Favor of Merger of AFL-CIO

By George Gallup

Princeton, N. J., Aug. 15.—Although rivalry between CIO and AFL union leaders is bitter, and talk of a merger draws scorn from many of them, there is apparently a good deal of sentiment for a merger among the rank and file of the two unions.

When interviewers for the Institute talked to union members included in a nation-wide sampling of public opinion, they found sentiment approximately 2-to-1, among those with opinions, in favor of having the CIO and AFL patch up the break that occurred back in 1935 and join together into one labor organization.

Proposals to do this came from a number of union leaders right after the Taft-Hartley act was passed. Walter Reuther, head of the United Automobile workers (CIO), suggested for example that organized labor close up ranks in order to present a united front in the fight to repeal the act and to defeat members of Congress who had voted for the union regulation measure.

Today's poll shows that the chief opposition to a merger is apparently at the executive level rather than the membership level in the two unions.

Members of the AFL and CIO included in the national cross-section were polled on the following question:

Would you like to see the AFL and the CIO join in one organization?

The vote:

Yes	55%
No	25
No opinion	20

CIO members voted as much in favor of the merger as AFL members.

There is, however, less sentiment in favor of a merger today than there was five years ago. In January, 1942, a poll by the Institute found that 71 per cent of union members polled wanted to see the two labor organizations joined together, while 22 per cent were opposed and 7 per cent had no opinion. That was a favorable ratio of more than 3-to-1.

It may be that the longer the organizations remain apart, the harder it will be to stir up sentiment among union members to support a merger.

Snake Bite in Church No Accident, Court Says

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 15 (AP).—A fatal snake bite received while handling a poisonous reptile during religious services is not an accident, the Eastern Division of the Tennessee Court of Appeals ruled today.

Australia Rations Use of Dollars

Canberra, Australia (Saturday), Aug. 16 (AP).—Prime Minister J. B. Chifley said today his cabinet had directed a review of dollar spending for tobacco, movies and all imports of "less essential character."

He said a decision was reached to ration severely the use of dollars for travel and to reexamine newsprint imports. Another decision was to make an over-all reduction in gasoline consumption to save 4,250,000 gallons a month.

65,000 Koreans Jeer at Russian General Shtikov

Seoul, Korea, Aug. 15 (U.P.).—Col. Gen. Terenty F. Shtikov, chief Soviet delegate to the Joint Commission for Korea, was booed today by an estimated 65,000 Koreans who thronged Seoul Stadium to celebrate the second anniversary of liberation from Japan.

The crowd, composed mainly of right-wing political adherents, listened to but did not jeer Lieut. Gen. John R. Hodge, American military governor; Maj. Gen. Albert E. Brown, American chief delegate to the joint commission; and other high American and Korean officials.

Five minutes elapsed before Kim Koo, former president of the Korean provisional government, could subdue the vociferous jeering which broke out as Shtikov rose to speak. Throughout the Russian's address, which praised the Soviet army's "fierce battling in the annihilation of Japanese colonial oppression," the cat calls continued.

Group Urges Harvest Fetes In Churches

A call to Protestant churches throughout the Nation to set aside definite periods during the late summer and fall for the observance of "harvest festivals" has been issued by three national mission organizations.

Certain churches, the call said, including the Reformed, Lutheran, Mennonite, Moravian and Brethren, celebrate harvest days, but in many others the practice has been abandoned.

"This unfortunate trend," continued the call, "has produced a Nation of town and country churches in whose worship the references to seed-time and harvest are particularly lacking. No worship can, without losing vitality, remove itself from the ordinary pursuits of men. It is especially in connection with agriculture, where mystery and providence are so evident, that this needs to be kept in mind."

A special order of service has been prepared by the group for distribution to churches interested in observing a harvest festival period. Groups issuing the call were the Committee on Town and Country of the Home Missions Council of North America, the Federal Council of Churches, and the International Council of Religious Education.

Architect Frank Grad's drawing of the Adas Israel Congregation Synagogue which will be built on Connecticut ave. between Porter and Quebec sts. nw., sometime next year

New Synagogue Is Planned; Other Churches Will Build

Greater Washington will have a number of new churches and church additions in the next year. Plans for many of the buildings have been completed and details of construction are now being settled.

One of the most ambitious of these undertakings is the new synagogue which Adas Israel Congregation will build on a 3-acre tract on Connecticut ave. between Quebec and Porter sts. nw. The building, designed by Frank Grad & Sons, architects, is expected to cost about one million dollars.

The present synagogue of the congregation, built in 1908, is at 6th and I sts. nw. and is no longer large enough for the membership of nearly 700. The new building will provide facilities for all members of the congregation and a small chapel for daily worship. In addition, there will be a daily Hebrew grade school, a large assembly auditorium for educational programs and forums, a completely equipped kitchen, a library, and private parking facilities.

Build in Spring

Abraham S. Kay, building chairman, says that the congregation hopes to begin construction sometime next spring. About $650,000 of the necessary million has been pledged by members and friends of the synagogue. Joseph A. Wilner is president of the congregation and Rabbi Solomon H. Metz is spiritual leader of the group.

In Takoma Park, the Potomac Conference of the Seventh Day Adventist Church is planning a new church building at Carroll and Willow aves. They hope to begin construction next spring or early in the summer.

The building in which the group has been meeting has a capacity of only 400, and the congregation has been forced to hold two services in order to accommodate all of its worshipers. The proposed stone church, designed by Ronald S. Senseman of Washington, will have a capacity of 1400. The Rev. George Semler Rapp is pastor of the church.

McKendree Methodist Episcopal Church is planning an addition to the second story of their church at South Dakota and Lawrence st. ne. The addition will be used for Sunday school classes. A balcony in the main sanctuary also will be completed, greatly increasing the seating capacity for regular church services.

Wenner & Fink of Philadelphia are the architects, and the Rev. Horace E. Cromer is pastor of the church. Construction will probably begin sometime early next year.

The present building at 207 S. Patriarch st., Alexandria, was built in 1856 at the time of the founding of the church. It has been sold to the Full Gospel Tabernacle, which will take possession at the end of September. The Rev. Merrill J. Yoh is rector of the church.

Sunday School Addition

A Sunday School addition will be built by the Avalon Heights Church of Christ, 2800 Douglas st. ne. Plans for the brick and cinder block building at the rear of the church have been completed, and a permit applied for. It will include a basement and first story classrooms and is expected to cost about $30,000. Kirwan & Sons, 1219 Wisconsin ave. nw., designed the addition. Harry Pickup, jr., is pastor of the church.

Presbyterian Editor Guest At Covenant

The Rev. Stewart M. Robinson, D. D., editor of The Presbyterian, will be guest preacher at Covenant-First (National) Presbyterian Church, Connecticut ave. and N st. nw., tomorrow at 11 a. m. His sermon is entitled "The World's Plight and Promise."

Dr. Robinson returned home this week with a group of clergymen commissioned by the Secretary of War to observe conditions in Europe. A divisional chaplain with the AEF in World War I, he is now in the Chaplain's Reserve, is chairman of the Presbyterian Commission on Army and Navy Chaplains, and vice chairman of the General Commission on Chaplains.

He was educated at Princeton University and received the Doctor of Divinity degree from Tusculum College, Greeneville, Tenn. He has held pastorates in Cleveland and Lockport, N. Y. Since 1929 he has been minister of the Second Presbyterian Church in Elizabeth, N. J.

He has been editor of The Presbyterian since 1934, and has contributed to several religious journals. In addition he is a director of the American Tract Society, World Dominions, Inc., and Stony Brook Assembly.

Rev. Schnabel Back Tomorrow

Tomorrow at 11 a. m. the Rev. George E. Schnabel, minister of Albright Memorial Church, 4th and Rittenhouse sts. nw., will return to his pulpit to speak on "Into the Woods."

He has just returned from the Masanetta Springs Bible Conference, where he spoke on Evangelical United Brethren Day. He also spent a week at the Oakwood Park Conference at Lake Wawasee, Ind., where he was an evangelist and conducted a daily forum for ministers.

Youth Parley Is Announced By Adventists

Plans for the first Nation-wide youth congress ever held by the Seventh Day Adventists were announced last week by E. W. Dunbar, Takoma Park, leader of youth for the World General Congress of the denomination.

The congress will be held in San Francisco September 3-7. More than 10,000 Adventist young people, representing 3000 churches in all parts of the United States and Canada, are expected to attend the meetings.

District Delegations

The fortieth anniversary of the young people's missionary volunteer department of the church will be celebrated at the congress. Twelve Greater Washington Adventist churches will send delegates to San Francisco. Also represented will be the Washington Missionary College, the Review and Herald Publishing Association, the Washington Sanitarium and Hospital, the Adventist Theological Seminary, all in Takoma Park.

Prof. M. E. Kern of Takoma Park, who 40 years ago organized the youth movement in the church and served as its first secretary, will be an honored guest. Other past directors who will participate in the sessions are Henry T. Elliott and Alfred W. Peterson.

Takoma Park Speakers

Among Takoma Park church officials who will speak at the convention are Elder J. L. McElhany, general conference president; Elder L. K. Dickson, general conference vice president; Elder M. L. Andreasen, general conference secretary; Elder W. A. Scharffenburg, secretary of the American Temperance Society, and Elder A. A. Anderson, secretary of the Ministerial Association.

Associated with Dunbar in the youth department of the church are Theodore E. Lucas and Lawrence A. Skinner of Takoma Park.

Religion in Action

Brotherhood Proves Bars Can't Keep Religion From Jail

Brick walls and iron grills may keep men in the District Jail, but they cannot keep out the spirit of religion. To help remind prisoners that they are not forgotten by their God, even when they have fallen from grace among men, several groups of District men and women go to the jail each week to conduct church services.

One of the most active of these "jail evangelism" groups is the Baptist Brotherhood, a men's missionary organization from the city's 35 Baptist churches. Under the able direction of their president, Earl H. Pendell of the National Memorial Baptist Church, they have established a thriving program for the inmates.

The brotherhood project got its start in 1942, when Pendell received a letter from a man awaiting trial, requesting religious help. With the assistance of the late E. Allen Green, then resident superintendent of the jail, Pendell and the Rev. A. Lincoln Smith of the Congress Heights Baptist Church drove the entering wedge for the program.

At that time about 100 services a year were conducted at the jail by various church groups. The brotherhood, through its work, was able to organize the program so that today there are over 300 services a year, and they have become a regular part of the prison program.

According to Pendell, the services conducted by this group are neither the first nor only program of the sort which has been organized at the jail. They have rather supplemented and organized the program which already existed.

The Box Bible Class of Emory Methodist Church has joined the brotherhood workers program, and conducts regular services in one of the cell blocks. In addition, a women's class from the National Memorial Baptist Church goes to the women's section of the jail each week to work with women prisoners.

Services are conducted in the cell blocks on Sunday mornings and all the prisoners have an opportunity to attend. In addition, services are held in the activities room, formerly the officers mess, for men on the work detail.

The activities room in which Sunday morning chapel and the Tuesday evening work detail services are held was especially fixed up by the men of the Baptist brotherhood, with the assistance of jail officials. In addition, the Baptists furnish religious movies shown there during the week.

The service itself is simple. There are usualy several hymns, chosen by the congregation, and sung with great gusto. Sometimes the men, of their own free will, speak themselves of their belief in the help which they can get from God, and offer their thanks for the services which they are attending. The brotherhood workers lead the singing and give the prayers and a short sermon. Throughout the emphasis is on helping God, and upon the fact that man's sins and past wrongs can be forgiven.

The full attendance indicates the men attend because they want and need the help of religion. When, at one time, prison officials planned a curtailment of services in order to fit the institution routine, a group of inmates protested and the services were continued.

Pendell and his coworkers are proud of the results they have had. They will tell you of the men who attend services while serving jail sentences, and went out later to preach as missionaries, evangelists, or ministers. There were others who have become leaders in their communities and have written the brotherhood in thanks.

Sometimes a local minister joins the brotherhood group or a visiting evangelist leads the service. Volunteer musicians and musical groups add their rhythms, or help the accompanist as he plays the piano or organ.

The workers themselves are men of many backgrounds, who use their every talent at the Sunday service. For they may have to play for the hymns, lead singing, deliver a sermon, or organize the morning program and the group who is to give it.

One of the regular workers perhaps expressed the sentiment of the whole group when he said: "It's awfully hard to quench the spirit of the Lord." The Baptist brotherhood and the others who conduct these services truly know what "Religion in Action" means.

Top Powers Urged for Park Board

Expanded powers for the National Capital Park and Planning Commission were advocated yesterday by Edward B. Burling, Jr., newly elected president of the Citizens' Council on Community Planning.

Overlapping jurisdiction of the District and Federal Governments as well as conflicts between District, Maryland and Virginia planners show the need for centering responsibility for the over-all planning of the Washington area in the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, he said.

The planning group chief, speaking at a luncheon meeting of the Uptown Lions Club at the Broadmoor Hotel, said that all governmental groups dealing with planning, zoning and highways should be required to consult the commission. He explained that at present the commission acts in an advisory capacity only on its own initiative.

Handicapped Group Fills Board Posts

Randall J. Hicks, Alexandria realtor, and Robert Ramspeck, executive vice president of the Air Transport Association, were elected chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the board of directors of the American Foundation for the Physically Handicapped yesterday.

Hicks, who lives at 3706 Mt. Vernon ave., Alexandria, is active in the Civitan Club program for the handicapped, having been the regional director for this area for some years. He is now chairman of the club's handicapped persons committee. Last year, he worked on the National Association for Employing the Handicapped with the program of the Federal Inter-Agency Committee on Employment of the Handicapped.

Ramspeck, a former Georgia Representative, majority whip and House Civil Service Committee chairman, was active in legislation to aid handicapped persons.

At the board luncheon meeting in the Willard Hotel, Foundation President Paul A. Strachan named the following as chairmen of standing committees: Jennings Randolph, industry; Charles E. Potter, membership; N. P. Alifas, labor; Ramspeck, constitution and by-laws; Dr. Merle E. Frampton, education; Frank W. Lee, finance, and William P. McCahill, information.

Heads of special projects committees included Col. Robert S. Allen, amputees; Dr. Meyer Wiener, blind; Dr. Ross T. McIntire, spastics, and K. Vernon Banta, physical demands. An executive committee was also appointed.

15-Foot Tides, 110-Mile Wind Hit Tampico

Tampico, Mexico, Aug. 15 (AP).—The year's worst hurricane lunged inland 100 miles north of here today but its fringe was enough to whip this oil capital with 110-mile-an-hour winds, unroof homes and bring 15-foot tides.

The storm center was said by the Weather Bureau to have hit in an area where there are few towns and poor communications. Information is incomplete.

Destructive winds howled into Tampico at dawn. Families in the poorer sections abandoned flooded homes and moved to nearby hills.

Waves 15 feet high swept over Tampico beaches. Small lakes and rivers rose rapidly as rains accompanying the hurricane reached cloudburst proportions.

Tourists deserted flooded beaches, where cabins later were washed away. Electric power failed for five hours.

Weather Bureau instruments were destroyed early in the day, and accurate measurements were not obtained.

This city of 132,000 persons, a rich oil center and one of Mexico's largest cities, was paralyzed.

The center of the storm struck sparsely settled Soto La Maria, a fishing and ranching area midway between Tampico and Brownsville on the Texas border.

Gales and rain were felt as far as 300 miles from the hurricane's center. No casualties were reported.

Leadership Groups Decide to Keep Independence

Zurich, Switzerland, Aug. 15 (AP). Representatives of National Committees for Christian Leadership of seven countres decided at the conclusion of a 10-day meeting here today that each national committee should remain independent.

The National Committees for Christian Leadership are informal associations of Christian laymen whose aim, through study and comradship, is to promote more effective Christian leadership in the home, community and Nation.

The meeting here, first of a series to be held in European cities, was under sponsorship of the United States Committee, headed by Nathaniel Leverone of Chicago, chairman of the board of the Automatic Canteen Co. of American. Others include Senator Alexander Wiley (R., Wis.), Representative Brooks Hays (D., Ark.), Frank McIntosh, president of the McIntosh Electrical Engineering Co. of Washihngton, D. C., and Dr. Henry Ness, president of the Northwestern Bible Institute of Washington.

Electronic Device Sought So Blind Can Read by Sound

Can you visualize a blind man reading without braille?

It may never happen, but some 300 delegates to the American Congress on Surveying and Mapping heard yesterday that electronic engineers are working on a "blind reader" that may revolutionize reading habits of the sightless.

The device, described by S. W. Seeley, director of the Industry Service Laboratory of the Radio Corporation of America, would enable the blind reader to determine the shape of a letter through variations in tones—of all things.

This is how it would work:

The reader would wear earphones. Then, with an electronic gadget shaped like an electric razor, he would run over a line of print. The shape of the letters would set up specific sound waves, resulting in special tones.

But Seeley, an expert on such matters, emphasized the "reader" is still in strictly an experimental stage. He cautioned against unwarranted optimism.

On another matter, however, which seems easily as fantastic to the non-electronically schooled, Seeley was more certain of his ground.

A scientist, if he knows how, can print his name on the back of a microbe. It's been done, he said.

And then, as if his audience didn't already figure as much, Seeley added:

"The potentialities of electronics are literally boundless."

The delegates, at the close of the two-day meeting at Hotel Statler, elected Marshall S. Wright of 2613 S. Kent st., Arlington, an adviser on aerial mapping and photography at the Agriculture Department, as president of the congress. He succeeds Capt. Frank S. Borden of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey.

Southern Church Delegates Favor Separation Plan

Montreat, N. C., Aug. 15 (AP).—Delegates from all but one synod of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church, United States, meeting as a continuing committee of the church, had adopted a findings committee report which urged immediate separation from the Federal Council of Churches.

A similar committee favoring the Federal Council met here last week.

The report adopted here said that "the leadership of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America has through the years declared doctrinal differences and convictions seriously at variance with those views held sacred to the Southern Presbyterian Church."

Community Is Formed by County's Jews

Jewish residents of the county have united to sponsor the Montgomery County Jewish Community. The new group will begin its activity in September with high holiday services at the Silver Spring Armory.

The new county-wide organization was formed by the Bethesda-Chevy Chase Jewish Community Group and the Montgomery Lodge B'nai B'rith.

Jewish personnel from Walter Reed and Forest Glen Hospitals and the Naval Medical Center will be their guests at the high holiday services.

A building is planned, to include a house of worship, Sunday school and meeting halls. A site in the Rock Creek Forest development has been donated by Sam Eig, who has also given land to Protestant and Catholic groups.

Joseph Silver of Silver Spring is chairman of the organization committee. Other members are: Mrs. William Willcher, Mrs. Lawrence Freedman and David Kahn of Silver Spring, Philip Schiff, Jonas Stein, Bernard Weltzar and Dr. Henry Hoff of the Bethesda-Chevy Chase group and I. S. Turover, Eig and A. S. Kay, members from the county at large.

Ram Sterility Blamed on Heat

Blacksburg, Va., Aug. 15 (Spl.). The present heat wave has been blamed for many things, but today it was credited with making rams sterile.

George W. Litton, acting head of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute animal husbandry department, declared that some unexplained gaps in lamb births may be due to rams periodically sterile from excitement or heat.

Messages and Gifts From Heart Heaped on Travis, 'A Great Guy'

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

WITH THUNDEROUS applause, more gifts than could be piled on a five-ton truck, and appreciation speeches so unrehearsed they could only come from the heart, Washington paid its respects to its favorite ball player last night.

Cecil Travis night was a resounding success.

While a crowd of 15,228 fans watched and applauded, with long and deafening handclapping, what was expected to be a half-hour programme before the Nats-Athletics game stretched into a full hour.

Presents ranging from an automobile and pedigree hereford bull to a necktie and a guest card for a turkish bath were heaped on Travis and his pretty wife, Helen.

Words of congratulation were spoken in person by Clark Griffith, Manager Ossie Bluege, Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, and congratulatory telegrams were read from General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, Baseball Commissioner A. B. "Happy" Chandler, American League President Will Harridge, National League President Ford Frick and the average baseball fan.

The last came from 15-year-old Clyde Holland, whose message calling Cece a "great guy enclosed a $2 bill.

Travis' own reaction to all of this attention was his usual shy grin and a brief public address speech in which he solemnly thanked the civic groups, merchants, sportswriters, teammates and plain baseball fans who contributed to the occasion.

He wound up with "I'll never forget this night. . . . You've all been swell."

Fandom's general opinion of the honors for a player who has spent 14 years in a Washington uniform, with 3½ years off for war service, was that "the thing was done up real good." His teammates were enthusiastic about the affairs, to a man, and watched his acceptance of their present, the bull, like a kid watches his dad's eyes as he unwraps a Christmas tie.

A farmer at heart, Travis seemed especially pleased with the 1500-pound animal. It was necessary to call him away from inspection of the beast to accept his final gift.

Of all these present, Travis' long-time friend, Buddy Lewis, seemed the most tickled. An observer remarked "you'd almost think it was Lewis night" as Buddy helped out with details wherever possible.

TRAVIS

There were other features, including "Cowboy" Early Wynn's surprise bit of rope twirling (some said he'd practiced two years for the occasion), the Scottish bagpipe band music and Highland Fling dancing which certainly appeared to be authentic, and a float ride by Miss Washington of 1947, Peggy Wilson.

When the speeches were over, Ossie Bluege had credit for the most poignant expression of Washington's regard for Travis. Surprising one and all with his literary knowledge, Ossie stole a line from the poem Abou Ben Adam . . .

"Cece," he said, "may your tribe increase."

In Appreciation

Among the gifts received by Travis were:

Power lawn mower, trailer for jeep, set of knives and steak knives, automatic 20-gauge shotgun, cash, two thoroughbred English setters, bird dogs and an invitation to South Dakota to shoot pheasant at close of baseball season, porch daybed and two porch chairs, coaster wagon, maroon leather chair, electric oven, Mixmaster.

Portable radio, necktie, leather jewelry case, scrapbook about players, outside charcoal broiler, three changes motor oil, airplane pictures, four-wheel coaster bike, Tricycle, sandbox and playpen, combination swing and trapeze, set children's porch furniture, two bedroom rugs, six-piece maple bedroom suite with springs and mattresses and plastic bedspreads, electric percolator, seven-piece brass and stainless steel cooking ware.

Tan leather chair, sport shirt, certificate for $20 hat, certificate for pair of shoes, two pairs sun glasses, four boxes of 20-gauge shells, diamond ring, smoking stand, fishing rod and reel, wrist watch, hunting suit, sterling candle stick holders, sterling silver cake plate, De Soto car, sterling silver bowl, complete car service, flowers, PM tenor, two-ring neck pheasant, $25 gasoline card, lifetime fountain pen, traveling bag, white-faced Hereford bull, electric dishwasher.

Nats Trail Athletics In 7th, 3-0

BULLETIN
Philadelphia led, 3-0, at the end of six innings. The game was delayed 45 minutes due to the Cecil Travis Night ceremonies and presentations.

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Before a crowd of 15,000, the Nats opened a three-day home stand at Griffith Stadium last night against the Athletics in the first of a four-game series.

Right Hander Joe Coleman, who beat the Nats, 3-2, in the first game of a double-header in Philadelphia last Sunday, was hurling for the Mackmen, opposed by Walter Masterson again. Coleman was trying for his fifth victory, Masterson his tenth.

A single game is scheduled this afternoon and a double-header Sunday winds up the set.

A's Runners Stranded

The A's got runners on base in each of the first four innings, but couldn't score. Bingo Binks singled with two away in the first, but died there as Fain grounded out.

Fain got the second hit off Masterson, a single to right, with one away in the fourth, but he couldn't advance a peg as Chapman skied to Grace in left and Priddy retired Guerra.

Nats Threaten

The Nats offered a mild threat in the second, but a threat was all it amounted to. After Vernon fanned, Travis walked. Christman skied to Binks in right, but Priddy kept things going by dropping a double into short right field, Travis moving to third. Al Evans ended the uprising with a fly to McCosky in left.

Washington muffed another scoring chance in the fourth. Spence started the round with a single to right and advanced to second when Eddie Joost bobbled Vernon's hopper. Travis, trying to bunt, fouled to Guerra and Christman ended the round by skieing to Binks who doubled Spence off second.

Two straight walks brought the A's a run in the fifth after Masterson had apparently pitched his way out of a jam. He walked Leadoff Man Suder and then served four straight balls to Majeski.

McCosky Delivers

Masterson, however, turned Coleman's attempted sacrifice into a double play, catching Coleman's tap and doubling Majeski at first. Leftfielder Barney McCosky, however, whacked the first pitch into center for a single to score Suder. Masterson then bore down and fanned Joost.

Dodgers and Cards Both Leading

The Brooklyn Dodgers led the Philadelphia Phillies, 2-1, as the Phils came to bat in the fifth inning at Brooklyn, Joe Hatton was on the mound for the Dodgers and Schoolboy Rowe for the Phils.

In a homerun duel, the Cards were leading the Pirates at Pittsburgh, 6-2, at the end of six innings.

Fernandez's Single Wins In Ninth

Boston, Aug. 15 (AP).—The Boston Braves outslugged the New York Giants, 8-7 today and as a result replaced the Giants in third place in the National League pennant scramble by three percentage points.

Nanny Fernandez climaxed an uphill battle for the Braves by singling home Earl Torgeson with the winning run in the ninth inning.

The Braves jumped on Starter Larry Jansen for three runs in the first inning on doubles by Tommy Holmes, Bama Rowell, a ground out, walk and another two-bagger by Connie Ryan.

Jansen Ousted

A After the Gians had tied the count by scoring once in the second and twice in the fourth, the Braves routed Jansen and moved ahead again by pushing three runs home in the fifth on a double by Bob Elliott, a walk and fly out.

The Giants drove reliefer Ed Wright to cover with a four-run blast in the seventh that Walker Cooper climaxed with a three-run homer, his 26th of the season.

Braves Up Again

Boston re-deadlocked the count in the eighth at the expense of Joe Beggs. Ryan singled to start the frame and moved around via a sacrifice, ground out and wild pitch. When Frank McCormick and Tommy Holmes followed with singles after Ryan scored, Beggs was replaced by Hooks Iott.

Iott walked Torgeson and Ryan with one out in the ninth and then gave way to Trinkle, who yielded Fernandez' game winning blow.

Palmer's 136 Retains Lead At Portland

Portland, Oreg., Aug. 15 (AP).—Continuing the sub-par pace that earned him first round honors, Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., held at least a temporary lead today at the end of the 36-holes of the 72-hole $10,000 Portland Open Golf tournament.

Palmer tacked up a second-round 70 alongside his sensational six-under par 66 yesterday for a two-day total of 136.

He was among the early finishers today and although he shaved two shots off standard figures for the Portland Country Club course, it was no solid assurance he would retain the front running position.

John Bulla, Phoenix, Ariz., added another 69 for a total 138 to move into second place behind Palmer while Ray Honsberger, Portland, came up with a second-round 68 for a total 139.

Other low early second-round finishers:

Herman Keiser, Akron, Ohio, 71—141; Virgil Shreeve, Springfield, Mo., 69—142; Ellsworth Vines, Los Angeles, 72—143; Ralph Hammquist, Glendale, Calif., 72—143; William Langley, amateur, Portland, 70—143.

Another of the younger pro stars home into prominence today when George Payton of Hampton, Va., shot a 66 to slide into second place with a two-day total of 137. He crowded in ahead of Bulla by a stroke, equaling Johnny Palmer's fine round of yesterday, tallied 32—34. He had a 71 in the opening play.

Worsham Has 70

Feller Proceeds With Plans; Says Rule Doesn't Bar Him

St. Louis, Aug. 15 (AP).—Bob Feller went ahead today with plans to pitch five post-season games in Cuba, claiming that Commissioner Chandler's ruling against major leaguers playing in the Cuban National League did not affect his case.

"As far as I can tell, Chander's ruling doesn't bar me from playing in Cuba during the 30-day barnstorming period," the star Cleveland Indian righthander said. "I won't become a member of the team, the Almendares, but will just pitch five games for them between October 21 and November 8."

Chandlers' decision, announced yesterday, said that major leaguers could not play as members of Cuban National League teams but would be allowed to play outside the continental United States during the 30-day barnstorming period beginning October 8. Barnstorming schedules must be approved by the commissioner's office.

"All my plans to play in Cuba" Feller continued, "have been made in good faith, with the stipulation I would not play with or against any ineligible players. I don't entirely understand what Chandler means."

Feller said he planned to organize a team for a barnstorming tour, and that he would file his schedule with Chandler.

"He will either approve it or disapprove it; there's nothing I can do about it," the pitcher said. He added that President Bill Veeck of the Cleveland club had approved his post-season plans when Feller discussed them with him last month.

Pipher Pitches Tantrums, Is Put Out for Season

Oshkosh, Wis., Aug. 15 (AP).—Charles Pipher, whose hot fast ball and hotter temper have been both the pride and dismay of Oshkosh Giant fans, was under suspension today for the remainder of the season.

Pipher has been the strikeout king of the Class D. Wisconsin State baseball league this season, fanning 214 batters in 146 innings while winning 12 games and losing five. On two occasions in regular games he retired 19 batters on strikes, and in a seven-inning tour of duty whiffed 17.

C. W. Bronson, business manager of the Oshkosh club, a New York Giants' farm, said Pipher was sent to his Jersey City, N. J., home last night because his "tantrums on the mound were disturbing the morale of the team."

Division Is Sewed-Up

If Yarosz Is This Wonderful, Bee Bee Doesn't Have Chance

By Bill Ahlberg
Post Reporter

The big guy in the blue sports shirt kept running around the ring grabbing people.

"Look at him. Isn't he wonderful?"

The object of his affection was slim, good looking 25-year-old Tommy Yarosz who came to town yesterday to wind up training for his fight Monday night at Griffith Stadium against Washington's Bee Bee Washington.

The big guy shouting about the fighter was Bunny Buntag, Tommy's manager, and the fellow who is plotting Tommy's way up the fistic ladder to the middleweight championship.

"Why this guy's got the division sewed up. In Pittsburgh, if you want to fight you got to meet Tommy, in Chicago the same and at Madison Square Garden he's licked all the so-called hot shots. This guy's the greatest fighter in the world.

"Why even Jake LaMotta, who is supposed to be afraid of no one, won't meet my Tommy.

"We'll take Graziano right now or Gus Lesnevich in the light heavy bracket and beat them both. This, Tommy, I tell you is wonderful."

Yarosz steps into the ring Monday night with quite an impressive record at that. He has fought sixty-two professional fights as both a light heavyweight and middleweight and has lost only twice, both times by decisions. He beat Bee Bee by a decision last February 4 in Pittsburgh when Bee Bee was a last minute fill in on the fight card.

Yarosz worked out yesterday at Turners Arena with Kid Wolfe, local favorite.

The two had met before, during the war in Bremen, Germany and had boxed some exhibitions there.

Mort Cooper Set For Operation

Boston, Aug. 15 (AP).—Manager Mel Ott of the New York Giants today announced that Mort Cooper would go to Philadelphia Monday for an operation on his throwing arm.

Cooper has been complaining that his arm tightened in the elbow after a few innings and it was discovered that a bone-chip existed outside the joint, just beneath the skin.

"The doctor who will perform the operation has assured me Cooper would be able to throw again in a week," said Ott. "If that is the case, the operation strikes me as a good risk."

Diringer, Suggs Play

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 15 (AP).—Diminutive Louise Suggs of Atlanta, defending champion, and tall Carol Diringer of Tiffin, Ohio, a co-medalist, come to grips for the first time tomorrow in a 36-hole test for the Women's Western amateur championship.

The two emerged fairly easy through the semi-final round today—Miss Suggs outsing Jean Hopkins of Cleveland 3 and 2, and 21-year-old Miss Diringer beating Mary Agnes Wall of Menominee, Mich., 2 and 1.

The 112-pound Miss Suggs methodically brushed aside Miss Hopkins in the same fashion as she did in the 1946 semi-final round of the amateur, although the Cleveland lassie held her even through the first nine.

Miss Hopkins, posting a two-over-par 39 for the exacting Evanston Gold Club course to her foe's 38 on the front side, found her shots flying into traps on at least five holes and into the rough on as many more.

Naval Officer First in Shoot

Camp Perry, Ohio, Aug. 15 (AP).—Chief Petty Officer J. A. Young, 38, today became the first Navy winner of the War Department's "national triphy individual pistol match" in over 40 years.

Younfi fired a 279 out of a possible 300 points over the national match course. Charles F. Logie, Grand Rapids, Mich., was second with 276, and Emmett Jones, Los Angeles police lieutenant, third with 275. The best the new national all-around pistol champion, T/Sergt. Huelet Benner of Fort Knox, Ky., could do in the match was o finish in a tie for fifth at 272.

Redskins Test Pass Catchers In Drill Today

Los Angeles, Aug. 15.—Washington's Redskins put on their second scrimmage under playing conditions tomorrow to determine what progress has been made toward getting their scoring machine in order for the Los Angeles Times charity game in the Coliseum, September 5.

Chief concern to the 'Skins is whether the boys are going to hold onto the passes from Sammy Baugh and Jim Youel, the two quarterbacks.

While such receivers as Jim Peebles, Hugh Taylor, Dick Poillon and Dick Todd did some nice catching in the first game, a lot of good throws were dropped.

Baugh, Youel Effective

Coach Turk Edwards believes some of the receivers, especially the newcomers, were trying too hard. He figures they will be more relaxed this time and he will get a better line on the overhead attack.

With Baugh sharp as ever and Youel throwing better than he did in 1946, it is apparent that the Redskins will pin their greatest hopes on passing.

The improvement of Peebles, a made-over tackle, has been impressive and the potential ability of Taylor, a rookie receiver, is almost more than the 'Skins had hoped to find.

Nussbaumer Touted

Eddie Saenz was the No. 2 receiver with the club last season, behind Steve Bagarus, and with swift Steve gone, the coaches are looking hard for someone to take his place. They think Bob Nussbaumer is more than a casual possibility, without discounting Saenz or Dick Todd.

While Nussbaumer didn't show a great deal of catching the first time out, he caught 10 throws for 143 yards last year for the Packers, who lacked a good passer. He and Baugh just might get together and do wonders.

Three or four better than ordinary receivers to handle Baugh's accurate pitches could upset any opponent, and if Saturday's scrimmage confirms some of the suspicions of first scrimmage, there's trouble ahead for the rest of the National League.

End of School

Today Is Graduation Day For 500 Tennis School Kids

TODAY IS graduation day in The Washington Post-Recreation Department Tennis School.

For the last time this season, five hundred kids will tote their rackets out on the court to receive lessons from the District's tennis stars.

At the finish of today's classes, which will take place at 17 playgrounds, diplomas will be awarded those youngsters who attended two or more of the classes.

Today's final lesson will sum up the basic strokes which have been taught at previous classes and will review the elements of court strategy already discussed.

The sessions have been a great success, with everyone cooperating in fine style.

The instructors, all of whom are area tennis stars, gave up their free time on Saturday mornings to direct the classes. All have been enthusiastic about the way the younsters have taken to tennis.

The Recreation Department workers who handled the large registration and aided the instructors at the Saturday classes also contributed to the school's success.

Commissioner Bill Shreve has handled the whole program smoothly and competently, and expects to see a bigger and better school next year.

Sponsors of the school contributed rackets and balls, which enabled many youngsters to take part in the classes who otherwise might not have been able to attend because of lack of equipment.

The result has been to set in motion the first large scale tennis school in the District's history. Many boys and girls from 6-19 have received a sound basis for further tennis development and lots of enjoyment playing the game.

Night Angler Hooks an Owl

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 15 (AP).—A remarkable fish story with caged evidence to support it was circulated today by Joe Denkenberger of Cumberland.

He had gone angling at midnight in Deep Creek Lake, he said, casting his line with jitterbug plug when suddenly there was a big splash. Seconds later, the pole was almost wrenched from his grip.

Excitedly he reele din, peered and recoiled—from a not-so-wise owl with a 36-inch wingspread flapping irately on the hook. The bird is now recuperating in a cage.

Alexandria Ousted, 7-5

Kannapolis, N. C., Aug. 15 (AP). Memphis, Tenn., took advantage of an early lead here today to defeat Alexandria, 7-5, and thus eliminated the Virginia State champions from the American Legion's Region 4 baseball tournament.

The triumph pitted the Tenneseeans against the Kannapolis Juniors tonight in a contest which will determine the regional championship if Kannapolis wins.

Memphis scored four runs in the first, added two more in the third and insured the game with another in the ninth, but the Virginans loaded the bases in both the eighth and ninth frames in repeated threats against the Memphis lead.

The Virginians scored twice in the second, Roer walked and advanced on Grove's single.

Alexandria's Zehring scored in the third, after hitting a one-bagger and making the round on singles by Gatgan and Dohner.

In the fourth, Brown singled, Groves went to first when hit by the pitcher and both made it home.

In the eighth, Alexandria loaded the bases, with two outs. Thompson attempted to bunt a mate home and was called out, retiring the side. The Virginians in the ninth loaded the bases again, Zehring and Dohner getting on by error, and Gahagan hitting a single. Roer hit into a double play, to snuff out their hopes.

Wilmington Meets Washington Team

Parkersburg, W. Va., Aug. 22.—Wilmington, Del. defeated Westport Post of Baltimore, 2-1, here today to enter the Region 3 American Legion Baseball Tournament finals. Wilmington will meet the Bunker Hill Post of Washington, D. C., in Saturday's final game. The Wilmington-Baltimore game was postponed yesterday because of rain, and today's playoff caused the final game to be moved ahead to Saturday.

Leahy and Mont Star Casualties

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 15 (AP).—Quarterback Tommy Mont of Maryland and Coach Frank Leahy, himself, today became the latest casualties on the injury-plagued College All-Star football squad.

Leahy took a toothache to a dentist. Mont chipped a bone in his right elbow and joined the more than half of the 63-player squad on the crippled list. It was uncertain whether Mont would be ready for action next Friday night against the Bears.

Stagg 85 oday; Taking New Post

Stockton, Calif., Aug. 15 (AP).—Amos Alonzo Stagg, dean of American football coaches, will be 85 years old tomorrow—and he's busily preparing for a new coaching venture.

He has accepted a position at Susquehanna University in Selingsgrove, Pa., where he will be associated with his son, Amos Alonzo, jr.

Crime Stoppers Stop as Score Reads 43 to 5

ELEVEN-YEAR-OLD Ronald Dearstine, the East Riverdale Crime Stoppers correspondent called the sports department yesterday to report a game:

"We shellacked the Pikestown Pirates, 43-5, today but I think I ought to tell you—they weren't much good."

The Crime Stoppers pounded out 36 hits with Pitcher Steve Case getting credit for the victory. He pitched only five innings and went out with a slight 33-2 margin.

The losers had just as bad a time as the score indicates.

They ran out of pitchers after the third little fellow had been pounded so they started the whole procedure over again with each pitcher getting a second turn on the mound.

The game only went seven innings and "we'd been a cinch to push our runs over the 50 mark in two more innings," said the correspondent.

Connecticut Plays Yale

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 15 (AP).—The Yale and University of Connecticut football teams meet for the first time October 2, 1948, at Yale Bowl.

The gridiron squads also meet the following year, when they will open the Eli schedule September 24.

Out Fishing...

By Jack Bell

Great Falls, Mont., Aug. 15.—Rolling down the beautiful Madison River valley from West Yellowstone on Highway No. 1 to Great Falls via Virginia City, famed for its vigilante days; Butte and Helena, where Gov. Sam Ford formally greeted 11 of us rod and gun writers.

On our left are the magnificent Ruby Mountains, on the right the Gallatin range, famed in early history as the haunt of the Plummer road agents, all country today for cattle, elk and rainbow trout.

The air was crisp and before starting frost had to be scraped from the windshield. Driver of our car is Jack Jost, United States forester in charge of timber management and forest insect control.

This spring Jack supervised the spraying of 413,469 acres of Federal, State and privately owned timberland.

* * * *

BEFORE STARTING operations, construction of three landing fields for use of 11 planes used to spray the forests to eradicate an infestation of the Tussock moth were necessary.

Fred Johnson, driver of the lead car, is in charge of wildlife management for the United States Forest Service in region No. 1, which covers Idaho north of the Salmon River, Washington, Montana and western North Dakota.

While stopping in Virginia City at the old "Bale of Hay" bar, once frequented by two-gun rustlers and robbers, Fred told us he has some 50,000 elk under his care.

In addition, his charge comprises some 250,000 mule and white tail deer, 6000 moose, 2200 antelope, 4000 Rocky Mountain goats, 1200 big horn sheep, 6000 bear and about 600 grizzlies. The grizzly bear is fast becoming an extinct big game animal. In addition Fred worries about his sage grouse and pintails.

* * * *

WHEN THE MAGNITUDE of jobs performed by the United States Forest Service is considered and when one sees the expanse of this rugged country, one realizes how big the job is. It is regrettable Federal appropriations are so small. The service so handicapped.

After the 355-mile drive from west Yellowstone, tired and hungry, we were guests of the chamber of commerce at a dinner of Montana roast beefsteak.

After a night's rest, we head for Browning, Mont., where rod and gun editors touring the Pacific Northwest, will be inducted into the tribe of the Blackfeet Indians.

Game Won In Third on 5-Run Rally

By Roger Wolbarst
Post Reporter

The Merrick Boys Club defeated the Capital Transit League Robins, 8-4, to keep their chances alive in the City championship series yesterday on the South Ellipse.

Merrick's playoff record now shows one victory and one loss, while the Robins' second loss eliminated them from further play.

THE STANDINGS

	W.	L.		W.	L.
Heurich	2	0	Costello	1	1
FBI	2	0	Merrick	1	1
Fire Dept.	1	1	Robins	0	2

A five-run third inning sewed up the contest for Merrick, who were unable to hit relief pitcher Buck Scrivener with any consistency for the remainder of the game.

In the big third, Dick Jarboe singled and two two were out, Al Cesky singled, Bud Galloway doubled, Bob Lamon singled, Jack Condon singled and little Al Guiffreda doubled. Five runs were across and that was the ball game.

Gene Gould, who went the full game on the mound for Merrick, scattered eight safeties and struck out seven batters.

Gould halted a ninth-inning Robins rally by fanning a pinch-hitter and making the last man fly to center after two walks and a single had filled the bases.

There will be no game today but on Monday, Heurich's Brewers will meet the FBI on the South Ellipse at 4:45 p. m. Both teams are undefeated in series play.

How to Play Tennis

This is the sixth in a series of articles by the District's leading tennis players in conjunction with The Washington Post-Recreation Department Tennis School.

Doubles Play

By Alphonso Smith and Jim Farrin

THE DOUBLES GAME is a science in which each member of the team is responsible for a certain area of the court on every shot. The doubles team should always move together; both players should be at the net or in the back court at the same time.

Alphonso Smith

Jim Farrin

Attack is the keynote in doubles play. Always try to get into the net to score winning volleys. You must force your opponents to make a return that enables you to smash the ball to a vantage point.

When you are serving, your partner should be at the net. He should stand four to six feet from the net itself and about two feet inside the alley line.

* * * *

AS YOU SERVE, you should always follow your shot to the net. In general, the American Twist service is the most effective delivery in doubles as it allows the server more time to join his partner at the net.

When you are receiving the serve in doubles, try to keep the ball away from the man at the net. Instead, shoot for the feet of the server as he comes to the net. A low shot will be hard for him to handle as he runs forward.

One of the most effective doubles shots is the lob. Loft the ball over the head of the man advancing to the net and keep your lobs deep. A good lob is an offensive maneuver in doubles.

Once you pick a doubles partner, stick to him. Learn each other's weaknesses and strong points and always practice together. That is the way to become a good doubles team.

Stores' Sales Trend Down Since June

By S. Oliver Goodman

A lower trend in Washington department store sales has been evidenced since June, figures from the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond indicated last night.

Latest report showed a 2 per cent dip for the week ended August 9, compared with the same period last year. For the four weeks ended August 9, local store sales were 1 per cent down. June dollar volume was 3 per cent less than in the corresponding 1946 period.

However, for the first six months this year department store sales in Washington averaged 2 per cent higher than in the similar 1946 period. It will be recalled that last year's sales volume set an all-time high here.

Other figures compiled by the Richmond Reserve Bank showed inventories of local stores on June 30 were 11 per cent heavier than on the same date last year. Outstanding orders for goods were down 61 per cent.

SKIES BRIGHTEN: American Airlines, Inc., after dismal loss of $3,073,636 in first quarter, emerged with a net profit of $786,343 in second period. Improvement attributed to 41% upsurge in operating revenues while operating expenses held virtually unchanged.

GROCERS ELECT: William G. Gilks of Falls Church, Va., was elected president of Garden Food Stores, newly organized group of 76 independent grocery stores in Washington and area. Other officers chosen at recent session in Willard Hotel are: Emanuel Greenberg, Hillside, Md., vice president; Alfred P. Smith, Alexandria, Va., secretary, and the following directors: Morris Weiner, Steve Durinsky, Joseph Piccioni, all of Washington, and William McKee, Franconia, Va.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: Robert K. Stuart of Goodwyn & Olds yesterday was admitted to membership in Washington Stock Exchange. Stuart at one time was associated with trust department of American Security & Trust Co., served three years in the Navy and then joined the Washington investment house . . . Maurice Adelsheim of Minneapolis is now president of American National Retail Jewelers.

ODD LOTS: American Telephone & Telegraph registers 2,800,000 shares of capital stock to be offered to employes at $20 below average market price for month in which payment is completed. . . . Devoe & Reynolds Co. president said paint prices unlikely to come down . . . Salvage program in five years has collected 810,000,000 pounds of used fat. . . . Drivers will compete in first national truck "Roadeo" at Detroit for three days starting October 4. . . . Lima Locomotive Works, Inc., and General Machinery Corp., to merge if stockholders approve at October 1 meeting. . . . This week's auto production estimtaed at 83,648 units against 79,017 last week. . . . Four cement firms announce price increases ranging from 10 cents in paper and cloth bags to 15 cents in bulk. . . . Baldwin to increase prices 6 per cent on Diesel locomotives.

EARNINGS: North American Co. reported net income of $16,795,221 for the 12 months ended June 30, equal to $1.96 a common share. This compares with $14,055,505, or $1.64 a share in the previous 12 months. President Herbert C. Freeman pointed out that progress is being made in final liquidation of Washington Railway & Electric Co., an 80 per cent owned subsidiary. WRECO, he pointed out, showed net income of $450,054 for the three months ended June 30 after taxes and preferred dividends, compared with $412,745 in the same 1946 period. Case Survey Affects 109 Of 1240 on Relief Rolls

8 Per Cent of Those Checked So Far To Be Suspended Or Discontinued

Eight per cent of relief cases checked so far will be discontinued, suspended or held up as a result of tough new relief rules adopted by the Board of Public Welfare.

This was revealed yesterday by Welfare Director Ray L. Huff after social workers had ruled out 109 clients following review of 1240 of the 5400 cases now on relief roles.

The strict new regulations are designed to slice $300,000 from relief payments rather than reduce all checks 10 per cent.

Huff said there was some doubt as to the actual saving which would result. Children in families cut off from relief might end up in foster homes at District expense, he pointed out. Those denied special diet payments may have to be admitted to District hospitals, he added.

Board Gives Jobless Pay Fraud Advice

The District Unemployment Compensation Board yesterday warned those contemplating taking a vacation on unemployment insurance checks not to try it.

Because, says C. A. Wharton, board director, in very short order those checks stop coming and Court action may follow.

Payment is stopped, he said, if the claiment moves to an area where his type employment is unavailable or if he refuses work suitable to his talents.

Beyond that, payment is stopped for good if the claimant won't cooperate. The board is calling the turns on those checks.

Alding the board in its investigations, Wharton said, are the many calls received in his office from citizens—some just public-spirited, some irrate in-laws.

About one tip in five leads to uncovering of fraud, of which the common year-round variety is the receiving of unemployment benefits by a person actually working, he said.

Scrutiny of employers' quarterly reports on employes usually spikes this type, Wharton said.

About 200 frauds are uncovered a year. While the number of legitimate civilian claimants has jumped from 2685, this time last year, to 3046, the total claimants under the GI Bill of Rights has fallen from 8471 this time last year to 3956.

Retirement of older, less-efficient workers and the settling down of former GI's probably accounts for the shifting figures, Wharton suggested.

About 1500 of the current claimants are GI's who attended school before the summer.

Washington Wacs On Duty in Japan Get Promotions

Additional stripes decorate the sleeves of two Washington Wacs in the Army's occupational headquarters in Japan.

They are: Helen E. Espey, daughter of Mrs. Helen C. Espey, 316 Webster st. nw., who has been promoted to master sergeant, and Mary L. Sabin, daughter of Mrs. Nora E. Sabin, 915 K st. se., promoted to technician fourth grade.

M/Sergeant Espey, a McKinley Hhigh School graduate, attended Benjamin Franklin University here and worked for an insurance firm before joining the service. She is with the Army's civil property custodian's office.

T/4 Sabin, graduate of Eastern High School, is a teletype operator with the Seventy-first Signal Service Battalion.

Margaret Cross Will Quit Post In September

Resignation of Margaret Cross, executive director of Georgetown House, effective September 1, was announced yesterday by Mrs. Thomas C. Blaisdell, jr., acting board chairman.

Miss Cross has been director of the settlement house, a Community Chest member agency, at 3224 N st. nw., for the past eight years. She was acting director of the house in 1937, subsequently serving as a Girl Scout official in Honolulu for a period before returning here in 1939.

Miss Cross, who was guest of honor at a party given by board and staff members Thursday night, plans to visit her home in Minneapolis, Minn., and the Pacific Coast.

Visitor Ducks Heat by Starting Bicycle Tours of D. C. at 4 A. M.

A visitor from north of the border, overwhelmed by Washington's heat, yesterday suggested that the residents give the city back to the Indians every day from 9 a. m. to 7 p. m.

In town for a bit of sightseeing, Maurice Prince, a high school teacher from Vancouver, B. C., is touring the city in the small hours of the morning—from 4 a. m. until the sun grows hot.

Ten years ago when he paid his first visit to Washington—also during a heat wave—Prince drove into an air-condtioned restaurant long enough to write a few cards to his relatives in England and then climbed aboard a train for Canada.

Determined to see the city this time, he brought along his bicycle and is pedalling around loking at buildings and monuments before the rises.

The early morning has other rewards than coolness, he has found. He recommends the steps of the Lincoln Memorial as a fine spot to listen to the city gradually wake up and begin to hum.

"It must be a great thrill to an American to watch the sun rise over the Capitol Building," he said.

A native of Plymouth, England, where his father, Stanley G. Price, is town purchasing agent, Prince, a bespectacled man in his 30s, first went to Canada as an exchange teacher. He liked it so much he remained.

He spent the first part of the summer leading American Youth Hostal trips in New England. From now until school opens this fall he'll see as much of the United States as possible by train and bicycle—and all before the sun rises, if the rest of the country is like Washington was yesterday.

The Washington Post

high school teacher from British Columbia, cools his feet in the Lincoln Memorial pool and looks for another spot of interest on a map of Washington. Said he about our fair city, "You can give it back to the Indians between the hours of 10 a. m. and 7 p. m."

Vepco Smoke Burns Ladies Of Alexandria

A bevy of determined ladies made short shrift of judicial dignity in Alexandria yesterday while exercising proclivity for cleanliness.

Officially it was the City of Alexandria vs. Virginia Electric and Power Co. But it turned out to be the ladies, including the wife of Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black, vs. the company, charged with violating the city smoke ordinance.

When things seemed to be slow getting started in the City's Police and Civil Court, the ladies resorted to mighty stage whispers for action.

When Judge James R. Duncan conferred quietly and judiciously with counsel at the bench, the ladies called "Louder!"

When the brief proceedings were over they didn't wait for legal pronouncements—they cornered the company lawyers, Armistead L. Boothe and Norman L. Flippen, and told them what they thought of the company and its smoke.

When the wind is right, these are some of the things that happen, the ladies said:

Soot flies off a parked car like dry snow, a dish left outdoors overnight is filled with cinders come morning; a house cleaned one day looks the following day as if it had been sprinkled with pepper.

Incidentally, Smoke Control Engineer John J. Kelly was there, too, for the city. He contended that most of the trouble was caused by overloading of the Vepco plant's five boilers.

In rebuttal, Flippen asserted that if the company cut down production, authority would have to be obtained from the State Corporation Commission as to whom to cut off.

On plea of company counsel for more time in which to prepare their case, Judge Duncan continued the trial until September 9. The ladies murmured injudiciously.

2 Polio Cases Are Reported In District

Two new polio cases, both children living within the District, were reported here yesterday.

Meanwhile, death of an 18-months-old Silver Spring girl was attributed to a fatal form of meningitis—meningococcus.

The baby girl, Robin Lynn Brown, 9517 Biltmore dr., died Monday at Children's Hospital, two days after being admitted.

She was the seventh meningococcus death this year in the Washington area, the Health Department said. Two of the mennigococcus deaths have been of District residents.

The new polio victims are a 4½-year-old boy of the 4000 block of Minnesota ave. ne., and a 6-year-old boy of the 2400 block of 25th st. se.

The Minnesota ave. lad entered Children's Hospital Thursday and the 25th st. boy last Sunday. Definite determination of polio was made yesterday.

The new polio cases are the fourth and fifth this year for the District and the twelfth and thirteenth for the Washington area.

Reprimand Is Asked for Fire Captain

James Too Valuable To Be Suspended, District Counsel Tells Trial Board

The Fire Department Trial Board yesterday was asked either to reprimand or fine Captain William V. James, suspended head of Engine Company 18, on charges stemming from an explosion at the company house on July 17.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Edward A. Beard, in concluding arguments before the board yesterday, branded James' conduct as "inexcusable" and declared that there must be "official recognition that this is misconduct."

Defense Counsel Renah F. Camalier, in his statement to the board asked full acquittal of James, who was beeing tried on charges he did not exercise proper judgment in ordering a half-and-half mixture of gasoline and oil for use as a cleaning and preserving agent for a boiler; that he unnecessarily jeopardized the lives and limbs of others; that he failed to take appropriate action to insure safety and proper maintenance of personnel and property.

Yesterday's session wound up four days in which exhaustive testimony was presented by counsel both for the prosecution and the defense. The trial board is expected to study the accumulated evidence and make its decision probably next week.

mfwyp :gLmh the men and wome

In his summation for the prosecution, Beard said the defense had not established use of gasoline in a Johnson pump as "common practice;" that James' action in ordering the boiler cleanisg and lubrication was in violation of police regulations; that James, as a firefighter with more than 20 years experience, should have been more thoroughly familiar with the inflammable properties of gasoline; that James took "an even chance" with the lives and limbs of four men.

However, Beard explained that he was not asking indefinite suspension of James because of his creditable record, and because he is a "valuable man" in the department.

Camalier, in asking unanimous acquittal of James on all three charges, contended he had used proper judgment in following "common practice" in his order; that he had properly delegated authority to Clyde Fletcher, fire department private, to do the boiler cleasing, and that only after July 17, date of the explosion, did gasoline become the "bad boy except for propulsion."

2 Principals Are Shifted in Montgomery

Transfer of two Montgomery County, school principals was announced yesterday by Assistant Superintendent of Schools E. M. Douglass.

William C. Pyles, principal of Silver Spring Intermediate School, will become assistant principal of Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School. His appointment fills both assistant principal positions there.

Replacing Pyles as principal at the Silver Spring school will be Henry C. Gregory, present assistant principal at Sherwood High School.

"A number" of other appointments will be announced next week, Douglass said.

Bladensburg Sets Election For Sept. 15

The town of Bladensburg, Md., will elect its first mayor and council September 15.

Heretofore the town has been governed by a five-man board of commissioners. Citizens voted to install a council type of government August 1 in a referendum which also favored merger with the community of Sunnybrook.

Positions which will be filled in the election are a mayor, treasurer and two councilmen from each of the two wards, the old Bladensburg and Sunnybrook.

Candidates for offices must file petitions with Supervisor of Election F. Headley Gasch at 4008 48th ave. not later than August 30 to be placed on the ballot. To be eligible they must have resided in the town more than two years, must own $1000 worth of property there, must be registered voters and must have 20 signers to their petitions.

Residents of Bladensburg and Sunnybrook who did not register for the referendum may register for the election on September 8 or 9. In order to register they must have lived in Maryland for one year and in their ward for six months prior to September 15.

Registration will be held in the Bladensburg Firehouse, 4810 Bladensburg rd., and at 4117 56th ave., Sunnybrook, from 7 a. m. to 1 p. m., September 8, and from 2 to 8 p. m. the following day. Polls will be open at the same locations September 15 and 7 a. m. to 7 p. m.

Sunnybrook was the only one of five adjacent communities which voted to annex to Bladensburg in the referendum. Those preferring to remain separate were Newton Village, Rogers Heights, Villa Heights and Woodley Hills.

Diplomats Give Views On Heat Wave

"Ethiopia was never like this."

That's what Petros Sahlou, Second Secretary of the Ethiopian Legation here, thinks of Washington's heat wave. Tossing diplomacy to the winds, Sahlou frankly admitted he longed for his native Addis Ababa.

"There," he thoughtfully said, "it is always just like a beautiful spring day here."

Thor Thors, Icelandic Minister to the U. S., resignedly observed that "we are still alive."

"Iceland," he pointed out, "never has a temperature above 65 or 70 degrees."

Azeez Bacchus, a clerk at the Indian Embassy, ironically noted that "you certainly don't have to sleep upder covers." He admitted, however, that "it gets hot in the Punjab, too."

An official of the Argentine Embassy had "no reaction at all" to the weather. "This heat just leaves me cold," he said.

Hospital Gets $44,668 From Pepco Funds

The Children's Hospital building fund yesterday got a $44,668.10 shot in the arm, boosting campaign totals to $1,255,331.90.

It came in the form of a check, turned over to Rear Admiral Charles R. Train, campaign director, by B. Roy Dunn, vice president and treasurer of the Potomac Electric Power Co.

The money represented refunds on electric bills from 13,276 individuals and firms, authorized in a campaign during June. The average refund, representing 10 cents permonth over a three-year period, was estimated at $3.37.

Admiral Train said the hospital's $1,300,000 goal is still short $27,187.22.

He said yesterday's check was one of the largest received since the original campaign began back in 1946. He emphasized that refund checks may stil lbe mailed to the hospital.

Receipts will be used to construct a new, fireproof structure to replace the 25-year-old building on W st. between 12th and 13th sts. nw.

Volcano Film At Rock Creek

A color film on "Paricutin—Mexico's Newest Volcano," will be presented tonight on the Rock Creek Park Campfire program, beginning at 8:30 o'clock by Dr. W. F. Foshag, Curator of Mineralogy and Petrology at the U. S. National Museum.

Paricutin pushed itself into life in a Mexican cornfield in 1943. Dr. Foshag has been on the scene to observe and record its activity much of the time since then. His is the first complete record of a volcano's growth.

The campfire site is near 16th st. and Colorado ave. nw. Parking space may be reached from Morrow dr. near 16th and Kennedy sts. nw.

Police Search For Molester Of Young Girl

10-Year-Old Enticed Into Basement by Man At Mount Rainier

Police of Prince Georges County and the District were searching last night for the man who molested a 10-year-old Mount Rainier girl yesterday afternoon.

The girl, who resides near the District line in Mount Rainier, told police a man had enticed her into the basement of a Kaywood Gardens Apartment on the pretext of playing a game and then forced her to submit to an act of sex perversion.

Police were called by the mother of the girl about 4:30 p. m. and a search of the area for the assailant was begun. Meanwhile the youngster was taken to the office of Dr. Samuel J. N. Sugar, 4300 Kaywood dr., Mount Rainier, for treatment.

Dr. Sugar said the girl had not been raped and apparently was the victim of an act of perversion. He said she was not injured, although she was "highly nervous" and suffering from shock.

Three men were arrested, but were released when the girl failed to identify them. Police Chief Eugene Plumer and Private Manuel declined to release a description of the man.

The girl told police she was playing near Kaywood Gardens about 2 p. m., when a man drove up and offered to show her the electric light fuse boxes in a nearby building. After gaining her confidence, he suggested that they retire to a basement because "it was cool down there" and he would show her a "game he used to play as a boy."

Bartender Held on Charge Of Attempted Rape

A 32 year-old Hillside, Md., bartender was arrested yesterday by Prince Georges County police for the attempted rape of a 34-year-old Hillside woman. He is being held without bond for a hearing in Marlboro August 22.

The bartender, Frank J. Wrestling, whose address was given as 526 H st. ne., is said by the victim to have offered to take her home from a tavern on Marlboro Pike when he got work at 5 p. m.

Instead they were taken in another man's car to Forestville where he let them out, she told police. The alleged attack took place in a wooded section just off Westphalia rd. near there.

When the woman resisted Wrestling's advances he beat her with his fist until she nearly lost consciousness before leaving her there, she stated. She managed to reach a nearby house and summoned police from Marlboro, who located the bartender in a tavern not far from the one where he is employed.

Wrestling denied the attack, but police reported that his shirt had bloodstains on it.

The woman was taken to Prince Georges General Hospital, where she was admitted with severe face injurnies and contusions on her body.

Virginia Oldster Cares For Herself and Does Chores About House

The years have wrought their havoc on an East Falls Church, Va., resident who tomorrow celebrates her 103d birthday yet the little lady's only complaint is that she is bored.

Mrs. Flora B. Hiett, who by now is quite accustomed to reporters and photographers dropping around on her birthdays, said yesterday she just doesn't know what to do with herself now.

Last year it was a different. The Winchester, Va., native who carried messages around Yankee lines as a girl during the Civil War was still reading, gardening and playing the piano a year ago.

But in the interi mshe has lost her sight completely and is now almost wholly deaf.

Takes Care of Herself

"Now all I can do is just sit in a chair," she said. But she still clothes and feeds herself, makes her own bed and manages to get up and down the stairs.

Mrs. Hiett, who has outlived her husband and two children, groped her way to a favorite rocker for the photographer. And the reporter shouted questions in her ear.

After more than 100 years of living, it seemed fitting to ask her what she thought of the world today.

A deeply religious woman, she replied: "There's nothing that's accidental; it's all the will of God."

A friend, asked about the centenarian's chief interests, said that Mrs. Hiett frequently inquired about neighborhood news.

She Is Quick-Witted

She was also described as quick-witted and sharp tongued. Until very recently, she led her constant companion, Mrs. Bertie V. Horne, a merry chase but since her sight failed she has been more subdued.

One of a family of nine, Mrs. Hiett has two sisters still living in Winchester. They are Mrs. John F. Miller and Mrs. J. E. Jifkins. She would not disclose her age because she once told a reporter the wrong ages, somewhat older, and the sisters "bawled her out."

A vigorous opponent of makeup, smoking and drinking, she is equally strong in her support of women's right to work and to vote. Her husband, Capt. Joseph P. Hiett, of the 12th Virginia Cavalry, died 40 years ago.

Her two children died only recently. The son, Henr Lee Hiett, died when he was 66.

"Few men live to be over 60," Mrs. Hiett said. And it almost seemed there was a patronizing note in her voice.

Westchester Tenants File Hike Protest

Petition Cogswell To Reconsider Rent Increase Approval

Attorneys for 266 tenants at ments, 4000 Cathedral ave. nw., have asked the Rent Control Administrator to reconsider a 10 per cent rent hike granted August 5.

Ernest Williams, rent control general counsel, said yesterday the review petition will automatically postpone the scheduled rent boost until Rent Control Administrator Robert F. Cogswell rules on the appeal.

The rent increase recommended for 558 units at the Westchester would bring the owners, the Realest Corp., $63,312 more per year. The company had asked a 17½ per cent hike to add $113,700 annual income.

The boost would have raised rents from $55 to $60.50 a month for tenants in one and one-half-room units; $210 to $230 a month for seven-room, three-bath apartments.

Tenants affected by the recommended boost include Commissioner Guy Mason, seven Senators, and a number of diplomats and high-ranking military and Government officials.

D. C. Board May Restudy Position on Mental Bill

Voluntary Entries At St. Elizabeths Might Be Good Idea, Says Commissioner

Commissioner John Russell Young indicated yesterday the Commissioners may reconsider their stand against a bill to permit District residents to enter St. Elizabeth's Hospital as mental patients voluntarily.

"Maybe it would be a good idea to bring the matter up again," Young said after newsmen reminded him that the District Medical Society favored the bill.

Dr. Winfred Overholser, superintendent at St. Elizabeths, said Young's statement was "very encouraging."

Young explained the Commissioners had opposed the bill as too costly, but Dr. Overholser declared the bills' supporters were making "no attempt to saddle the District with added expense."

Many Would Pay Way

Many persons who sought admission would be able to pay their own expenses, Dr. Overholser pointed out. "Our primary interest is to get these people well. And to do that we have to begin treating them in the early stages."

Voluntary admission would make this much easier, he explained.

The law proposed by the Federal Security Agency would make it unnecessary here for a person to be declared a "lunatic" and submit to a sanity hearing before being admitted to St. Elizabeths.

Persons who thought they needed mental treatment could be admitted to the hospital on approval of Dr. Overholser. Young said the Commissioners had blocked the bill because Budget Officer Walter Fowler had advised them it would bring added expense to the District.

Hadn't Conferred on Matter

He admitted he hadn't conferred with psychiatric authorities on the matter but said he believed Commissioner Guy Mason had done so before reporting to the rest of the Commissioners.

Spokesmen for the District Medical Society have indicated they may introduce a similar bill directly to Congress, by-passing the Commissioners.

Would Want to Save Money

Told that it had proven cheaper in 35 States for persons to take voluntary mental treatment, Young said he was sure the Commissioners "would want to do anything that would save money and help the people at the same time."

At yesterday's press conference, Young also:

Said he thought the Commissioners would ask Congress to remove a budget provision restricting appropriations for fire alarm headquarters to $77,000. (Fire Chief Clement Murphy said $98,000 is necessary to run the fire alarm system efficiently.)

Denied there was anything secret" about an investigation into charges by Capt. Joseph W. Conroy that Fire Chief Murphy is "demoralizing" the Fire Department. He said the Commissioners were merely withholding comment until they got the facts in the case.

Episcopalians Plan Services in Historic Church

During the next three weeks, services will be held at 4 p. m. in historic St. Andrew's Episcopal Church near Leonardtown. The services will be conducted by the Rev. Herbert S. Costian, pastor of St. Peter's Church in Leonardtown, in place of the 9:30 service at St. Peter's.

The church was built in 1766. Church law provides that services must be held four times yearly in a church if it is to be considered active. The flagstone floor of the building is said to have been presented by General Washington after he attended services there.

St. Andrew's was recently restored by the Washington Episcopal Diocese at a cost of $7000. A Baltimore member of the church left $20,000 for the upkeep of the old chapel, which is now seldom used.

2 Men Killed in Blast At Va. Cannery Plant

Chincoteague, Va., Aug. 15 (Spl.).—Two men were killed today in a boiler explosion here which destroyed Chincoteague Packing Corp., where 40 workers were in the midst of the tomato canning rush season.

The victims were John Sharply, jr., about 50, and Harvey Carpenter, about 52, who were heating water for scalding tomatoes. The remainder of the plan's employes were scheduled to begin work 10 minutes after the blast.

Assistant Fire Chief Claude Savage said Sharply was killed instantly when he was hurled about 40 feet into the air. Carpenter was treated for burns and head injuries, but was pronounced dead upon arrival at the Pensinsula General Hospital, Salisbury.

Savage estimated the damage to the one-story building at "well over $10,000." No fire resulted from the blast.

The fireman said that apparently the two victims had entered the plant early to heat water so that water for scalding tomatoes would be ready when the other employes arrived. Many workers were standing within 200 yards of the structure when the blast occurred.

Trinidad Boys Club Hopeful In New Crisis

The clubhouse, once a stable, now has a library, shower rooms, a snack bar and a gymnasium.

It has taken three years of scraping and saving to transfer the old building in an alley near 11th and H sts. ne. into a place where kids can play.

It will take a lot more digging to keep the Trinidad Boys Club operating over the winter.

For one thing the club that began with nine members now has an exuberant membership of 260 boys ranging in age from 6 to 19. As a result the monthly budget for operating the club has hit $600 a month.

For another, the club for the first time in its turbulent three years is going to have an adequate heating system this winter.

Oil Burner Needed

That is there will be heat if the club manages to stay open and somewhere $400 is found for an oil burner.

The kids that pour in and out of the clubhouse from 11 a. m. to 9 p. m. Monday through Saturday, refuse to consider that the club they helped build may go out of existence.

After all, they started with nothing but enthusiasm and they've still got plenty of that. They acquired the barn and they turned it into a clubhouse. Financial crises have been weathered before. Last spring the club was saved by a series of stories in The Washington Post that brought donations from residents totaling more than two thousand dollars.

Most of this money has been spent over the summer. A new floor has been laid in the second floor loft transfering it into a boxing and game room. Radiators have been installed and the club's seven baseball teams were equipped with uniforms. The laundry bill for towels used in the showers and for cleaning uniforms alone is more than $75 a month.

Delinquency Down 50%

"The people in the northeast just can't afford to let this club die," says Fred M. Nalley, jr., 27-year-old director and spark plug of the club.

Since formation of the club, the only facility of its type in the predominately low and middle class dwelling areas, police say that juvenile delinquency has dropped 50 per cent.

To finance the club over the winter the boys plan to take in a lot of new members—the kind that are too old to box or to join the tumbling team but who have money. The kids call them adult memberships and will sell you one for a dollar. Every week day this month and next is open house at the club and they'll show you what your dollar will do. They also are receiving contributions by mail. The address is 1119 Wylie st. ne.

Montgomery Delinquency Under Study

A study of juvenile delinquency cases brought before the Montgomery County Juvenile Court for the past two months is being conducted to analyze the services which should be provided by the court and by other social agencies.

Miss Dorothy Zietz, a student in criminology and juvenile delinquency at the University of Maryland, is conducting the study as a part of her work toward her doctorate, Judge Alfred D. Noyes said in making the announcement.

A recent study made by a subcommittee of the Juvenile Court Committee showed the need for an evaluation of the volume of juvenile delinquency and the type of service which could be available to children coming before the court, Judge Noyes said.

He believes that the statistics compiled by Miss Zietz will indicate, not only the size of staff needed by the court, but will provide a basis for analyzing the nature of services which should be provided by the court and the type of service which should be requested from other social agencies.

These facts can then be used by the court and the court committee to improve the work of the court and the care of children coming before it.

The Juvenile Court staff at present consists of one probation officer, a police officer assigned to the court and three clerical assistants.

She was graduated from Miss Lucy Simpson's Institute for Girls in Rockville and later studied at George Washington University.

She was a member of the Rockville and Gaithersburg Garden Clubs and frequently lectured on birds and wild flowers. She also belonged to the Woman's Society of Christian Service, the Inquiry Club and the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Bunch Relatives Seek to Reopen Coroner's Hearing

Relatives of the late Forest J. Bunch, 64, said yesterday they would ask the U. S. District Attorney to reopen a coroner's hearing to determine the cause of his death.

Miss Marion G. Bunch of Los Angeles, a daughter, charged that Wednesday's inquest wasn't "fair and impartial" and that Deputy Coroner Christopher J. Murphy was "covering up for somebody."

A coroner's jury found Bunch died from a fall after a stroke and exonerated police of any responsibility. Members or his family contend he was suffering only from high blood pressure when first examined by Gallinger doctors July29. About 14 hours later he was found to have a fractured skull. He spent the intervening hours in police custody, Miss Bunch said.

Bunch died August 4 as a result of the head injury. His daughter said the family would "take the case to the Supreme Court, if necessary," to find the "real" cause of his death.

N. B. Early, Virginia Tax Official, Dies

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 15 (AP).—Nathaniel Bacon Early, 81, U. S. Collector of Internal Revenue for Virginia and a former member of the Virginia General Assembly, died at the University of Virginia Hospital at 9 a. m., today. He entered the hospital July 22 and recently underwent an operation.

Funeral services will be conducted at 4 p. m., Sunday at the First Methodist Church here and burial will be in Monticello Memorial Park Cemetery.

Early had been Collector of Internal Revenue for the Virginia district for nearly 14 years and represented his district in the Virginia State capital for 36 years prior to that.

He represented Greene and Madison Counties in the House of Delegates for 10 years and after that was elected to the State Senate from the 26th Senatorial District, serving in the upper house of the General Assembly for 26 years.

Born at Earlysville in Albemarle County, July 30, 1866, he was graduated from Fishburne Military School in 1885 and attended Virginia Military Institute until 1889. He studied law at the University of Virginia under John B. Minor.

An "organization" Democrat, Early was a friend of the late United States Senator Thomas S. Martin and a strong supporter of Harry F. Byrd. He was named Collector of Internal Revenue September 11, 1933, succeeding his friend, A. Pendleton Strother of Giles, a Republican.

In the early war years, Early noted that Federal revenues collected through his office increased from 99 million dollars in the fiscal year prior to his appointment to $398 million dollars in the fiscal year of 1941-42. They rose even higher in subsequent years.

In the General Assembly Early was famed for his oratory of the "old school" type, but his nickname of "Bull" stemmed from the days when as a lad from Greene County he played "center rush" on the University of Virginia football teams of 1892 and 1893. The teams on which he played defeated Navy and Georgetown, among others, and in 1893 claimed the "championship of the South." The team that year was not scored upon.

Early is survived by his widow, who resides at Ruckersville; two sons, N. B. B. Early of Richmond and Nimrod Early of Ruckersville, and two daughters, Mrs. A. N. Fray of Advance Mills, Albermarle County, and Mrs. B. B. Parhott of Ruckersville.

It's Truly 'Welcome'

Barry and Bing Omit the Tears

By Richard L. Coe

YOU'LL CERTAINLY ENJOY Bing Crosby, Barry Fitzgerald and their cohorts in "Welcome Stranger" at the Earle.

This is a happy-hearted, genial comedy tailored to the nth centimeter for the talents of its likable starring duo. It's glib, gay and farcical, and the town's screens hold no better antidote for the heat.

Inevitably, "Welcome Stranger" will be compared with "Going My Way," that balanced triumph between tears and laughter which the same stars made one of the most successful films in picture history. Which is not exact, in a way, for this one relies almost solely on laughter, like as its themes and characters are.

This time Bing is a young doctor, blithe, happy-go-lucky but skilled in his work. Barry is again cantankerous, fussy and shrewdly understanding—an older doctor who has taken on an unknown young man so he'll be able to leave his practice for the first time in 35 years to go fishing. The setting is a small town in Maine.

You hardly need be told what happens. On the way up from Boston, with neither knowing the identity of the other, Barry takes instant dislike to the young blatherskite who sings while shaving in the train's washroom. To Bing it's all rather foolish fun, though you can imagine his surprise when he gets to the old doctor's home and recognizes his vis a vis from the dining car.

From then on you could tell the outline yourself, except that Story Writer Frank Butler, Scripter Arthur Sheekman and Director Elliott Nugent have chosen to make it clear in delightful details that are meat to these gifted fellows. A look of Bing's, a line all but tossed away, the sharp, shifting eyes of Barry, his mercurial changes of mood. All these tricks at which both actors are so amusingly adept make you smile contentedly through the picture.

"WELCOME STRANGER." Paramount release produced by Sol C. Siegel. Screenplay by Arthur Sheekman from a story by Frank Butler, adapted by N. Richard Nash and Sheekman. Lyrics by Johnny Burke, music by James Van Husen, score by Robert Emmett Dolan. Directed by Elliott Nugent. At the Earle.

Bing-Barry Field Day

Yes, it's a field day for Bing and Barry, and on that premise you'll enjoy every minute of it.

As for the "Going My Way" comparison you won't find the same tugs at your heart. The story is too contrived for that. The roles are frankly setups for a tested team. You could certainly say that Paramount was playing a sure thing too sure, but for all that the result is a captivating winner.

Besides his traditional cracks about Hope and Sinatra, Bing has several songs, "My Heart Is a Hobo," "Smile Right Back at the Sun," "As Long As I'm Dreaming" and a delightful production number, "Country Style," a square dance that makes you want to join in.

And while you're at the Earle you'll get some smiles out of "Inki at the Circus" and some interest out of Warner's first Pathe newsreel. It's a Life-Look-like report of "U. S. A.—Summer of '47," and it will be interesting to see what future issues of this newsreel are like.

CHILDREN'S FILMS: This morning is the finale at four of the Warner theaters for the current Children's Film Library series. At the Beverly is "Young Tom Edison;" at the Avalon, "Blondie Brings Up Baby;" at the Calvert, "Apache Rose," and at the Kennedy, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." She Sheridan winds up its series next Saturday with "Blondie Knows Best."

"TILLIE'S PUNCTURED ROMANCE" is the Open-Air auto theater's proud revival winding up tonight. . . . Chaplin, Marie Dressler, Mabel Normand and Slim Summerville are the stars of this one, which dates back to 1928.

THE HIPPODROME'S revival, "The Private Life of Henry VIII," holds on for a second week, with Charles Laughton, Robert Donat, Merle Oberon, Elsa Lanchester, John Loder, Binnie Barnes and Wendy Barrie in the cast.

SHIRTSLEEVE Shapespeare at the Mount ernon Place Methodist Church tonight at 8:40 offers a short version of "Julius Caesar," with Delma Smith, Robert Pomeroy, Lee Jordan and Jeanette Marr in Director Kay Detreux' cast.

BAND LEADERS and their charges are all set for tomorrow's VJ Thanksgiving Parade. Maj. Leon Brusiloff will be leading the Police Boys Band, Capt. Raymond Hart conducts the Loew Theaters' All Government Girls band. The Elks Boys and Girls Band of Silver Spring will be in the parade, too. . . . At the memorial service and dance on the Ellipse the 702 AAF Band, W/O Anthony Fredericks conducting, will be on hand. In case of rain the event moves up to the Shoreham.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Newspaper Writers Praised for Courage

The Washington Merry-Go-Round today repeats one of its oldest and most gratifying practices.

It bestows its brass ring for distinguished, enlightened and courageous service.

The honor goes to a group of working newspapermen.

These members of the working press are not "big name" personalities in the usual sense of that word. Some are syndicated. But except for their by-lines, none are widely known personally to their readers. They are not that kind of newsmen.

They don't make news; they report it—honestly, courageously, tenaciously, and with outstanding skill and understanding.

To their readers, the by-lines of these newsmen are an unfailing trademark of integrity and reliability.

There are many other newsmen like them all over the United States. Men and women who, day in and day out, quietly and modestly fight the good fight to get the news and to print it. That's why the working press of the United States is the finest in the world. Also, why it is one of the greatest glories of our country.

Occasionally one of these "unknowns" wins momentary public recognition for some particularly outstanding feat. But the great majority of them, like doughboys in the lines, slug it out doggedly and valiantly day after day with no other acclaim than the inner satisfaction of doing a good job.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round considers it an honor to single out a few of these heroes of the working press and call them to the attention of their fellow Americans. They are worthy of their country's approbation.

HERB BLOCK, cartoonist of The Washington Post, whose daily single-panel commentary on national and world affairs and personalities is without peer. Block says more in one of his cartoons than a squad of punditing columnists in eight columns of copy. Some of his creations, notably "Mr. Atom," are devastating and equal to the best produced by David Low, famed British cartoonist.

Block

Born in Chicago 37 years ago, shy and soft-spoken, Block started cartooning while still in grammar school. At the age of 17 he was a full-fledged cartoonist on a Chicago paper. He served as an enlisted man in the Army during the war and joined The Washington Post staff in 1946. A bachelor, Block looks more like a schoolteacher than a cartoonist, but today his brilliant daily panel appears in 130 newspapers.

STANLEY WOODWARD, sports editor of the New York Herald Tribune, whose ringing expose last spring of a mutiny plot by certain St. Louis Cardinals' players against Jackie Robinson, Negro rookie of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was in the highest tradition of American journalism. Woodward's forthright articles smashed this sinister manifestation of race discrimination before it could spread, and thus saved a great national sport from a destructive scandal.

Fifty-two years old, tall, heavyset, Woodward was born in Worcester, Mass., and was graduated from Amherst. Rejected for military service in World War I because of defective eyesight, he served as an ordinary seaman in the Merchant Marine. After 10 years' newspapering in Boston, he became a sports writer on the Herald Tribune in 1930 and was made sports editor eight years later. He has developed a crack staff which swears by him as a friend and boss.

ROBERT E. ("Fleet") WILLIAMS, editorial and political writer of the Raleigh (N. C.) News and Observer, who is one of the ablest, most courageous and liberal newsmen of the South. After five rejections on physical grounds by his local draft board, Williams literally forced his way finally into the Army in World War I by a personal appeal to the State Board. One of his greatest prides is that he served overseas as an infantry private. Born in Virginia, Williams has covered every type of story, from police to international conferences. A Williams by-line is "must" reading for News and Observer readers.

RICHARD S. DAVIS, political reporter of the Milwaukee Journal, who is known locally as "The Conscience of City Hall." An oldtimer in journalism, Davis has been a member of the Journal's staff since 1918 and has handled many of its biggest and hottest stories. He is the dread of boodlers and the spearhead of decency and progress. Several years ago he singlehandedly forced through a slum-clearance program by a series of blasting articles.

CHARLES RAUDEBAUGH, general assignment ace of the San Francisco Chronicle, who is equally brilliant in exposing a sordid abortion racket or at covering the United Nations. His vivid and dynamic chapter on San Francisco in "Our Fair City," best-selling study on municipal rule in the United States, earned plain-talking Raudebaugh the enmity of the chief of police—and the plaudits of his home town.

MARSHAL McNEIL, RUTH FINNEY and DANIEL KIDNEY, Scripps-Howard Washington correspondents, who quietly and conscientiously hold aloft the bright banner of fighting journalism raised by E. W. Scripps, late great founder of their newspapers. Veterans on the Washington scene, they know more about operation of the Government than most of its so-called operators. Also, about lobbyists and other finaglers, who on innumerable occasions have been frustrated by these writers' exposes.

Double Duty Doll

WHEN this 5-year-old miss goes walking in the park she takes along a snappy, blue felt pocketbook. Of course, it has a doll's face on one side, but otherwise it is just like mother's purse—shoulder strap, coin purse, mirror, etc. A girl can cram a lot of odds and ends into the rear pockets—just the way mother does

But once in the park and the fun of playing "grown up" gets a bit tiresome, this pocketbook is transformed into any little girl's favorite plaything—a doll. The trick is accomplished by opening the zipper under the doll's chin and pulling out the doll which lies coiled up inside the purse. Compartments on the opposite side hold extra clothes for the doll

"Pocketbook Dolly" was designed by Mrs. Paul Richmond, a Washington woman who divides her spare time between thinking up novel toys for children and working seriously on oil painting. After trying out the doll on her own two youngsters, she took it to a manufacturer who is now turning out the toy in mass quantities. The dolls, in blue or pink purses, are available at a local department store

Canadian Is Elected by College Unit

By Nellie Gardner

(Copyright, 1947, New York Herald Tribune)

Toronto, Aug. 15.—Dr. A. Vibert Douglas, dean of women at Queen's College, Kingston, Ont., and acting professor of astronomy there, was elected president yesterday of the International Federation of University women. She will serve until 1950, when the federation's next conference will be held in Switzerland.

Elected as vice presidents for three-year terms were Miss Marguerite Bowie, of London, who is an attorney; Miss Jeanne H. Chaton, of Paris, who is professor of history and geography at the Lycee Lamartine, and Dr. Helen C. White, professor of English at the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. Jeanne Eder of Zurich was chosen treasurer of the federation. She is interested in medical and chemical research and biochemistry.

Dr. Douglas, a native of Montreal, has studied at English and Canadian universities, and has been engaged in educational and scientific work for 26 years. She taught at McGill University for 18 years and has been at Queen's College since 1939.

The first Canadian to serve as president of the federation, Dr. Douglas received 61 of the 65 votes cast by the delegates. She received the support of the American delegates.

The conference completed its general business yesterday with the approval of reports submitted by the committees on economics, publications and relief and reconstruction aid. Gratitude was expressed by delegates from the war-torn countries of Europe for aid in food, clothing and scholarships for study received from the University Women's Associations of more fortunate countries.

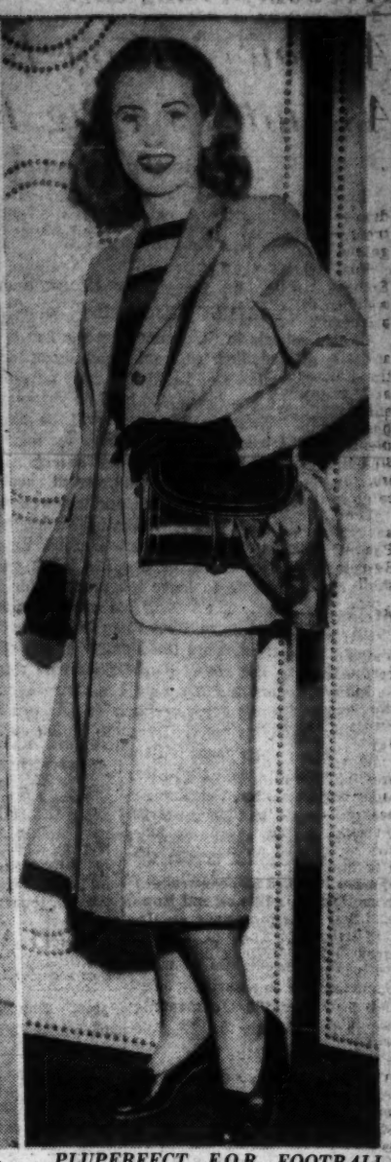
SURE TO STAGGER THE CAMPUS STAG LINE at any university ball is this handsome, black lace formal dance frock in the new, uneven, ankle length. The top of the fitted waist is outlined with fuschia, grosgrain ribbon

TO ACHIEVE THE OLD FASHIONED, COQUETTISH LOOK, college girls like this Gibson girl model, shown on the Shoreham Hotel veranda yesterday in a fall fashion show sponsored by an F street store.



PLUPERFECT FOR FOOTBALL GAMES, a week-end in town or nippy, frosty days on the college campus is this stunning grey woolen suit. Note the scarf worn casually

Mary Haworth On Vacation

Guerreros Have Son

Frank Guerrero, second secretary of the Dominican Embassy, has received word from the Dominican Republic from Senora de Guerrero of the birth of a son, their first child, on Sunday, August 10. Senora de Guerrero left Washington two months ago and will return the end of October with the baby. She is with her parents, Senor and Senora Federico Velasquez.

To California

Mrs. Clarence Grosner has gone to California for a month's visit.

Surprise Call Gives Barretts Reunion Abroad

One day recently, Suzanne Barrett, staff assistant at the Arcadia Club in Ludwigsburg, Germany, was called to the telephone. When she heard the voice at the other end of the line, she gasped. It was her father—Maj. Thomas F. Barrett, U. S. Army Air Corps, speaking from Frankfurt. He had been assigned to write a history of the war crime trials.

In short order the two arranged a happy reunion in Ludwigsburg.

A staff assistant at the American Red Cross club, pretty, hazel-eyed Suzanne plans recreation programs for servicemen and their families in the army of occupation. Naturally, the most spontaneous and successful tour of the club to date was when she showed her father around. Coworkers described the Washington miss as "one wide smile progressing from lounge to craft shop to recreation hall."

The slender District of Columbia girl joined the Red Cross in January '45, and has served in Casablanca, Tripoli, Algiers and Germany. A graduate of the Immaculata Seminary, she is formerly secretary for the Office of Naval Intelligence here.

The Barrett family resides at 4237 Nebraska ave. nw.

Your Questions On Homemaking

(1) Just as you enter one of our rooms, there is a spot where the parquet floor squeaks? Is there any way of eliminating this? (2) The bed coils in one side of my bed also squeak. Is there a remedy? L. T.

1. It may be that the subflooring beneath the parquet blocks is not resting firmly on the floor joists. Sometimes first-floor joists are left exposed in the basement so that someone standing there may observe the subflooring while another person walks around on the first floor. If any of the subfloor boards move up and down a bit as the person above steps on and off them, they should be tightened up by wedging shingles or any thin pieces of wood between the joists and the subfloor boards. As a rule, this will stop the creaks.

If the joists cannot be reached so easily from below, it may be possible to drive nails through the top flooring into the joists and stop the creaks. Tapping on the floor with a hammer should reveal the joists. The taps usually reverberate with a hollow sound between the joists and with a dull sound over the joists. The hammer head should be covered with a piece of cloth to avoid damage to the wood. After the joists have been located, the nails should be driven at an angle, one at each side. Be careful not to damage the parquet in so doing. Use 2-inch finishing nails and sink them below the surface of the wood with a nail set. Fill the depression with putty. Scrape off the excess and smooth with sandpaper after the putty has hardened. Cracks may be filled in the same way.

2. Wipe the coiled springs with a cloth and a few drops of lemon oil. This should be effective in removing the squeaks unless the coils are bent or out of place.

Will you tell me how to remove a large milk stain from a gray chambray dress? I have soaked it in cold water without results. M. K.

The cold water soaking should be followed by washing with lukewarm water and soap to be effective. However, if this doesn't turn the trick, use powdered pepsin. First sponge the spot with cold water, then sprinkle on the pepsin and let it stand for half an hour. Brush it off and rinse the spot well. For best results, be sure the material is free from soap and other alkali before applying the pepsin.

A New Nation Is Born As India's Flag Rises

By Marie McNair

Cameras clicked from the roof tops; India's new tricolor flag was draped from the portico; colored lights flickered through the tall trees and the pennons of India's various states hung over the rustic gateway.

But there was great solemnity to the ceremony at the Indian Embassy yesterday morning when the Ambassador, Asaf Ali, watched his country's saffron, green and white emblem, signifying a free and independent India, go up the flag pole for the first time.

Earlier, several hundred guests had gathered on the wide terrace and the rolling greensward to watch the impressive procession of the Embassy staff clad in black and gray tunics, white puttees and caps, moving from the Embassy to the verdant lawn. And members of the military moved smartly to salute as voices singing the Indian national anthem came over the loudspeakers.

The Ambassador read messages from King George VI, Premier Pandit Nehru and from Secretary of State George Marshall.

Message on Record

Asaf Ali's own message on this historic occasion had been recorded days ago, and was sent to Indian Embassies throughout the world, to be read at similar ceremonies taking place yesterday.

With the flag flying in a gentle breeze at the hilltop, the Ambassador began: "You have just witnessed a simple but historic ceremony." He traced the history of his vast nation from the fifteenth century of the Christian era, when European traders from Portugal, France and England first came to her shores. He paid tribute to England for her "great act of far-reaching political wisdom" in allowing three fourths of her empire to resume their birthright of freedom without the arbitrament of the sword.

Then—ceremonies attendant on the birth of a nation were over and guests moved into the spacious Embassy for iced drinks—Coca-Cola, fruit punch, iced tea.

I saw the New Zealand Minister and Lady Berendsen in the throng, back only a few days from a trip to the Berkshires and taking off for New York on the 27th for the United Nations again.

A Message From Rio

Senora de Belt, wife of the Cuban Ambassador, her piquant little face under a wide brimmed hat, told me the Ambassador, writing from Rio is gloating over a 70 degree temperature. Ray Muir, Acting Chief of Protocol, was there and others were the Chinese Ambassador and Mme. Wellington Koo, the Siamese Minister and Princess Wan Waithayakon; Charles Saltzman, Assistant Secretary of State, representing Robert Lovett, Acting Secretary of State; Capt. Floyd Ferris, USN, who has to do with the Navy's protocol; Mrs. George D. Neilson, wife of the judge, who was introducing the judge's sister, Mrs. Weston Vernon, visiting here from New York.

The Cuban Embassy had turned out in full force. There was the Charge d'Affaires, Dr. Jose Baron; the Minister-Counselor, Carlos Blanco, both without their wives, and Oscar Albertini, Financial Counselor.

Mexico was represented by the Minister, Rafael de la Colina, whose senora is in New York convalescing from illness, and still others were the British Minister, Sir John Magowan and Lady Magowan; the Charge d'Affaires of Colombia, Dr. Eduardo Guzman; Col. Anatoly Galkovsky, Assistant Military Attache of Air of the Soviet Embassy; Mr. and Mrs. Lothrop Stoddard; Loy Henderson, who heads the office of Near Eastern and African Affairs of the State Department, and Ray Thurston of the State Department's Middle Eastern and Indian Affairs department.

$200,000 Fire Razes Stores In King George

King George, Va., Aug. 15 (Spl.). Firemen today continued spraying the smoldering embers of five stores destroyed by a $200,000 fire last night.

Fire Chief Frank T. Hudson began investigating the cause of the blaze, which was discovered about 6 p. m. by Earl Clift, owner of the 2-year-old structure housing the five stores.

Clift, who estimated the value of the building and its contents at $200,000, said he believed the fire was started by an "old-type" kerosene hot-water heater in the Margaret Harris Beauty Parlor.

Clift said he saw flames inside the closed shop as he was walking by. He attacked the blaze with a hand extinguisher, but could not bring it under control. After warning the occupants of two second-story apartments, he summoned firemen.

Fire companies from King George, Falmouth, Colonial Beach and the Naval Proving Ground at Dahlgren fought the blaze which roared high as gasoline, oil and paints fed the flames in the cinder block building. The nearest water supply was a swamp three miles away.

The destroyed establishments were the Clift Motor Co., headed by Clift; the Fritz Hunter Hardware Supply, the Highway Food Shop, the James Crabtree Garage and the beauty parlor. A four-room apartment occupied by Charles E. Cleek and his family, and a two-room one rented by James King and his family, also were destroyed.

Among the losses were two cars in the Crabtree garage awaiting repairs. Clift said there was no insurance on the building but some of the contents were covered.

Natural Gas Men Freed of U. S. Control

The Federal Power Commission last night adopted an order withdrawing from all jurisdiction over independent operators who produce or gather natural gas.

The Commission said its action, culminating a long controversy over the FPC's right to control sales by such operators to interstate pipeline companies, is intended "to relieve any existing uncertainty" that it seeks such jurisdiction.

Five Garrett County Youths To Compete in Stock Judging

Oakland, Md., Aug. 15 (AP).—Five Garrett County high school students have been selected by the Future Farmers of America to compete in livestock judging competitions at Springfield, Mass., and Kansas City, Mo., this fall.

The youngsters are winners of Maryland State championships.

Warren Rush and Donald Fratz of Accident will judge animals in the American Royal Livestock Show at Kansas City October 20.

Working as a team, the pair won the swine judging contest at the Frederick Fair last year. They were trained by Marvin Callis of the Accident High School faculty.

Joseph Yommer and Sam Downey, a team trained by Merle Garletts of the Grantsville High School, will accompany Hobart Bowser also of Grantsville, to the Springfield Agricultural Exposition this fall.

Yommer and Downey won the dairy cattle judging event at Frederick. Bowser was named State champion poultry judge after a contest at the University of Maryland last April.

Yommer was also winner of an individual dairy cattle judging contest.

Both teams and their instructors are at the University of Maryland, College Park, this week for a special preparatory course before going to Springfield and Kansas City.

Hospital Gives Up Choice Meat Cuts

Woonsocket, R. I., Aug. 15 (U.P.).—Choice meat cuts were removed from the Woonsocket Hospital menu today and officials said soaring prices had more than doubled the institution's meat bill.

Supt. Leroy P. Cox termed the situation "desperate." The hospital meat bill has jumped from $1000 to $2500 a month, he said.

Hearing Waived In Waitress' Slaying

Martinsville, Va., Aug. 15 (AP).—Will J. Shumate, 46-year-old taxicab driver, waived a preliminary hearing in city police court today and was remanded to jail to await grand jury action October 13 on a charge that he shot and killed Mrs. Olene Benson, 22-year-old waitress, in a crowded downtown cafe here, August 8.

Ocean City Councilmen Won't Resign

Ocean City, Md., Aug. 15 (AP).—Councilman G. Lester Esham has given notice that he and his two colleagues will not resign as a result of stories of illegal liquor sales here.

The councilmen submitted resignations August 5, but withdrew them after being advised the city charter does not permit them to resign in a body. At that time they said they would take 10 days to make up their minds on individual resignations.

Esham said he and his colleagues would "continue to discharge, to the best of our ability, our responsibilities in carrying out the functions of government of the city of Ocean City."

Referring to newspaper reports of inadequate liquor law enforcement, Esham said, "Much publicity has been given recently to the vices of Ocean City, but because we see it in print does not make it any worse.

"Some of the people most deeply involved in such activities are from Baltimore. Yet each year Ocean City is singled out for attacks, while similar conditions believed to exist as openly in Baltimore continue unabated the year around."

He said the council "has considered resigning because of the city's failure to enforce the municipal law legalizing the sale of mixed drinks."

An annual license of $1000 is required of all establishments serving stronger liquors than wine or beer in Ocean City. Esham said only 14 are so licensed.

Rep. Miller Fails To Get Spuds in Children's Home

Easton, Md., Aug. 15 (AP).—Representative Edward Miller (R., Md.) said today he failed to get surplus potatoes for the Eastern Shore Children's Home here and "it shocks my conscience that staple foods cannot be given to worthy charities to feed human beings, but can be given away to feed livestock."

Miller pointed to a recent announcement of the Production and Marketing Administration offering to sell carloads of surplus potatoes to farmers at 20 cents per hundredweight. The administration suggested they be used for feeding livestock. Maryland farmers were offered the potatoes at Pocomoke City.

"There are no facilities for distribution of surplus items to feed little children, but at Pocomoke, a relatively short distance from here, there are carloads of potatoes," Miller commented.

Virginia Reports $12,550,562 Surplus Revenue for 1946-47

Richmond, Va., Aug. 15 (AP).—Virginia had $12,550,562.82 surplus in its general fund today.

The surplus, "available to apply against appropriations for the present fiscal year," was reported by State Comptroller Henry C. Gilmer. During the 1946-1947 fiscal year, the State government collected a record $252,300-660.88 and spent $248,750.205.60, he said.

The more than $252,000,000 included a number of "bookkeeping figures"—money merely handled by the State and not applicable against its general or special funds. The figure was nearly $52,500,000 more than revenue for 1945-1946.

Gilmer's report revealed Virginia collected $4,975,000 from the Federal Government for unemployment compensation benefits; $500,-000 receipts from the Literary Fund, and $45,500 in receipts from sale of revenue bonds. These collections boosted the total to $257,-821,160.88.

General fund revenues also struck an all-time peak of $53,990,-667.41, the report showed, and this fund was swelled to $59,623,105.32 with addition of $5,632,437.91 representing the State's portion of Alcoholic Beverage Control's profits.

J. H. Bradford, budget director, commented, "We are building our financial house on sand." He said that 13 years ago Virginia's general fund revenue was only $13,-000,000.

If Hacker's Friends Share Cab, Do Group Rates Apply?

Sometimes I wonder just what constitutes "group" riding in local cabs. How many people must occupy the vehicle before they become a "group?"

The trouble arises from instances where drivers are hauling friends, or members of their families.

Many drivers take the wife and/or kids someplace, and meantime keep an eye open for paying passengers — who are charged the full fare. P. D. reports an extreme example. He says:

"There was a man on the front seat, and three children in back. I got in back.

"The kids were eating chocolate candy, and pretty soon it was on my suit. The man flicked his cigar ashes out of his window in such a way that they flew back into my face.

"During the entire ride there was a constant din of conversation, and we went about eight blocks out of our way to drop the driver's free-loading friend.

"If we weren't a group, I've never seen one. But since I was the only paying passenger, I was soaked full fare."

PLATTER PLEA

From Louis Battistone of 4615 42d. st. nw. comes the following offer:

"In 1941 Spike Jones issued a Bluebird recording of 'Pack Up Your Troubles.' Since 1942 I have been collecting all of his records, and am missing only this one.

"The music stores don't have it, but I'm sure that my fellow District Liners can come to my rescue.

"I'll buy the record, or contribute to any charity the owner names."

Pack up your troubles, Louis. District Liners never miss a chance to make an honest buck for Children's Hospital.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Cute, well-mannered kitten, about two months old." (OVerlook 3240.)

LAMENT

I don't mind telling you I'm getting pretty tired of being offered peppermint flavors as I continue my search for old fashioned mint ice cream.

Doesn't this modern generation appreciate the better things in life any more? Am I going to have to go to Cleveland (is it Hoffman's?) to get a dish of mint ice cream smothered with hot chocolate fudge?

OLD REFRAIN

Mrs. Tom Pritchard, of 6950 Maple st. nw., says:

"You complain about the people who roadblock the aisle seats at movies. But my special gripe is against those who refuse to move back in buses and streetcars.

"Almost invariably, there's plenty of room in back, if one could just get to it."

I know how you feel, Mrs. Pritchard. Ain't it disgusting?

WHAT DID I START?

Little did I know what I was getting into when I used Eleanor Haight's question about Mexican food. Gaston Lellouche of 3059 S st. se. postcards:

"As an ex-Frenchman, I appreciate good food—especially exotic food.

"Now that we have settled the Mexican question, can your District Liners tell me where I can find Couscous? This is an Arabian dish which I'm sure many GI's enjoyed in Morocco, Algeria and Tunisia."

Personally, Gaston, I never heard of it. If the District Liners can't help either, let's ask Steve Canyon next door.

He and Happy Easter are getting to be experts on things Arabian.

"We like your plans for our new home . . . but my wife doesn't care for the shade of blue you used in the blueprints!"

Sad Situation of the Duke's Rancho

Hollywood.—Britain's new 75 per cent import tax on American films will rebound against J. Arthur Rank here. The first result will be the expulsion of all Rank movies from the Southern combine of film theaters in America. These theaters will stretch the run of American-made movies to freeze Rank and other British producers out of the showings . . . The much-publicized use of the Duke of Windsor's ranch in Calgary, by the Eagle-Lion cast which went there to film 'Stampede,' was fruitless. The ranch was in such a dilapidated state that it couldn't be used . . . Ambassador Ed Pauley has written to President Truman protesting that the Reparations Program he submitted is being sabotaged.

Sigmund Romberg, the composer who has been on a concert tour, tells his audiences that he hopes they like his "middlebrow music" . . . During Irving Berlin's visit to Honolulu last week he entertained at a leper colony. After the first number, Berlin had the stage moved closer to the lepers because he felt that they couldn't hear him . . . Friday night at the Mocambo's farewell party to the departing directors of the Runyon Fund, Jimmy Durante surveyed the roomful of stars and suggested to Charles Morrison, owner of the cafe, "What a time to bring in a prospective buyer" . . . At 1 a. m., when the band suddenly played the Star-Spangled Banner, someone suggested: "This could only mean one thing: That L. B. Mayer has declared war on Britain."

The Legion of Decency saw a showing of "The Black Narcissus," the new Rank film, and will ask that it be withdrawn . . . Drew Pearson plans to publish a chain of small newspapers in West Virginia, particularly in the Parkersburg and Wheeling areas . . . Two of the major radio networks have banned the lyrics of "Body and Soul," but will permit the Johnny Green melody to be played.

Clinton Anderson, who fancies himself a horseshoe pitching expert, played a match against George Skouras. Industrialist Skouras beat the Secretary of Agriculture for $40 at this game . . . At the Bohemian Grove week-end, Herbert Hoover discussed the list of Governors and said that Governor Green would make the best Presidential candidate . . . Because so many defendants are discouraged by the caliber of the counsel assigned to them by the Court and therefore plead guilty, a bill will be introduced in the New York State Legislature to create the Office of Public Defender. This wil be a paid job and the Public Defender will have available all the resources of the State to prove a defendant innocent.

Ludwig Bemelmans, who left Hollywood to go to his native Tyrol, wrote to some friends about the lazy, enervating California sunshine which induces procrastination. "You take a sunbath in the morning," said Bemelmans, "and when you wake up—you're 65" . . . Mrs. Bob Hannegan owns the sheet of memo-paper on which Franklin D. Roosevelt wrote the first of his series of letters to the 1944 convention on his preference for Vice Presidential candidates . . . Capt. Jack Hemingway, who learned about fishing from his father, Ernest Hemingway, has entered the business of designing fly-patterns for anglers. His shop is in San Francisco.

Al Jolson has been spurning the constant dinner invitations of a well-known Hollywood host. "Why," said Jolson, in explaining his refusal to attend, "should I give him the pleasure of my company for three hours?" . . . Some of Brooklyn's top bondsmen are awaiting word from the Grand Jury next month . . . Sir Alexander Korda, the Hungarian-born British film producer, said to Romanian-born Fefe Ferry: "Yes, it's true that Romanians and Hungarians generally are alike. Both would agree to sell their own fathers—but the Romanians would deliver" . . . Frank Sinatra starts working in "Miracle of the Bells" this week.

More Dying Now

'Cease Fire' A Mockery in East Indies

By Stanley Swinton

Garoet, West Java, Aug. 15 (AP).—The cease-fire order issued by the Dutch and Indonesians in the East Indies is a mockery here in the front lines.

More men are dying now than when the war was officially on, say soldiers and officers who are doing the actual fighting.

The cease-fire order had been heralded as the United Nations Security Council's first great victory for peace.

The "cessation of hostilities" on both sides really was not that at all.

For the Dutch, the cease-fire in reality meant there would be no drive on the Indonesian capital of Jogjakarta nor on the small chunk of central Java still held by the Republicans. Elsewhere, they are continuing to move forward in the rich areas they officially term "occupied."

Seize 386 Square Miles

Pushing down from Cheribon and east from Bandoeng, they have achieved a tenuous hold on more than 386 square miles of southwest Java since the cease-fire order. Reports say similar moves are being made in east Java.

While cut off, these areas never were occupied at the time of the cease-fire order.

The Indonesians, who after the first cease-fire order announced later they, too, planned "mopping up and protective" action, now seem to be pushing just as hard and in just the way their staff officers in Jogjakarta outlined to me months ago.

On the central Java front where Dutch troops actually pulled up, they were striking against the Hollanders in frequent small actions to which the Dutch responded shot for shot. In some areas the Dutch proclaim they occupy, but where actually a slender line of blond Dutch youths have just staked perimeter areas in a few towns, the Republicans were striking down from the mountains, sniping and avoiding frontal clashes more effectively than when the Dutch forces were moving.

"Peace"—on Dutch Front

I have not been with Indonesian troops, but here is "peace" as seen at the front with the Dutch:

Dutch forces moved into destroyed Tjitjalengka, 20 miles south of Bandoeng, before the cease-fire rule.

"Last Sunday, 100 Indonesians struck down from the mountains and attacked us," said Capt. Baltus van Dam. "Monday between 200 and 300 attacked again, shouting 'freedom' and using Vickers guns."

The Dutch used fighter planes to strafe the mountain area there.

This once-noted health resort of Garoet was nearly 70 per cent destroyed after the cease-fire order. The Indonesians did it. The Dutch admit they occupied the town August 10, five days after the order.

Tasikmalaja, further on, was taken after a full day of fighting August 6, the Dutch said. It was wholly destroyed.

Just before I wrote this dispatch, a Bren gun snarled nearby. M. J. Guykerbuyr, an officer, commented: "There's your cease-fire."

Two-Point Plan Offered to Handle Java Row Outside

Lake Success, Aug. 15 (AP).—The Netherlands touched off a bitter fight in the United Nations Security Council today by challenging the competence of the Council to deal with the Indonesian conflict and offering a plan to handle the question outside the U. N.

Netherlands representative Eelco N. Van Kleffens sharply rebuked the Council for the way it had handled the case, charged the Council was overstepping its authority and declared:

"We (the Dutch) are all for a commission or an investigation, but we hold the Council has not the right to establish one."

He said the Netherlands government had a two-point proposal, but that it rejected any action by the U. N. to investigate or mediate the dispute.

The Netherlands plan:

1. An investigation by an impartial country, to be selected by two other countries, one designated by the Dutch and one by the Indonesians. This impartial country could also use its "good offices" in the dispute if the efforts of the United States failed.

2. A joint investigation by all the "career consuls" stationed in Batavia.

Runs Into Opposition

The Netherlands proposals ran into immediate opposition from Poland and the Philippines. Both supported in principle an Australian resolution which called for a U. N. Commission to supervise the truce in the East Indies.

Belgian Delegate Joseph Niscot supported the Netherlands. He said that if the council acted in the case it would be exceeding its power and its actions would not be binding.

Faris el Khoury of Syria, council president, stuck to an earlier ruling that the council could continue to discuss the Indonesian question until some member moved and the council voted to drop it.

At the end of the meeting it appeared that this ticklish legal question was headed for a test, but the council got in a procedural fight on whether the big power veto would apply. El Khoury told reporters later he would rule that the veto would be inapplicable.

Dutch Violation Claimed

Batavia, Java, Aug. 15 (AP).—An Indonesian communique, broadcast over the Jogjakarta radio, said today the Dutch had dropped parachute troops south of Garoet, in south-central Java, in violation of the cease-fire order.

Netherlands forces have been attempting to clear mountain passes in the Garoet area on the road to Tasikmalaja, the communique said. The announcement added that the Dutch had occupied Gadjah, 25 miles northwest of their Semarang base in central Java, and Bawant, an equal distance to the west, August 10.

Premier Amir Sjarifoeddin made a personal appeal to British Prime Minister Attlee for support of the Indonesian request for the U. N. Security Council to order arbitration of the Dutch-Indonesian conflict.

Netherlands forces reported they had inflicted severe losses on the Indonesians, who they said had increased the severity of their attacks on Dutch outposts despite cease-fire orders.

Army Has Knotty Logistics Problem: Skirts

By Dorothea Andrews
Post Reporter

That guy Alex Pope must have had something there when he said, and we quote:

"Be not the first by whom the new are tried nor yet the last to lay the old aside."

The Army is finding that out, and it has a few Pentagon people in something of a dither.

All over skirts too, and their elevator movements, as dictated by the whims of New York, Hollywood and Paris dress designers.

New Uniform in Prospect

For skirts are coming down, and the Quartermaster Corps can't leave the Wacs and the Nurse Corps gals high and dry in the old models. Quartermaster is trying to figure out how to get the skirts it has on hand (unissued, that is) down, and as every woman knows, that is a problem.

In addition to that, the Quartermaster Corps and the Wacs are worrying their several heads about a new uniform for the Wacs and the Nurse Corps.

Despite rumors to the contrary, however, that uniform isn't going to be around for quite a while, and just what it will look like when it comes is anybody's guess.

Must Wait on House

This, insist the Wacs, is the unbiased truth.

They pointed out yesterday that it would be kind of silly to get around to issuing them new uniforms until they are a part of the Regular Army, which isn't going to be until the bill passes the House.

However, experimentation is going on and a moss green number has been shown to enlisted Wacs for their comments.

The experiment will be conducted with Wacs at Fort Monroe, Va., within the next month or so. Quartermaster will keep an eye on the moss green jobs as to durability, etc.

Plan to Follow Style

But there won't be new uniforms by the wholesale until, as one Wac put it, the "budget situation improves." It would appear that the budget situation is pretty sick right now.

One interesting thing about what the Wacs are pleased to call the "uniform story" is that Quartermaster and the Wacs have decided that it will be their policy to have women's uniforms follow "normal civilian style."

As somebody else once said: "As good out of the world as out of fashion."

Ex-GI Dice Expert Draws $5000 Fine

New York, Aug. 15 (AP).—Verdun J. Archimedes, 29, a former Army staff sergeant of San Francisco, accused by Federal authorities of pyramiding $3000 into $98,000 through dice games, sale of surplus Army property and American securities, was fined $5000 today in Federal Court.

He pleaded guilty.

D. J. Tobin Reelected By Teamsters Unions

San Francisco, Aug. 15 (AP).—Daniel J. Tobin, leader of the AFL Teamsters' Brotherhood was unanimously reelected president to teamsters' international convention. Tobin, 71, now begins his forty-second year in office.

His nomination was placed before the convention by Dave Beck of Seattle, the man generally expected to assume the newly created post of executive vice president and eventually succeed Tobin.

Britain Near End of Money She Borrowed

London, Aug. 16 (U.P.).—A treasury informant said today Britain would have to begin spending its gold reserves or selling the last of its American investments within five months, unless it receives American help or introduces even more drastic measures to save dollars.

This informant said that 850 million dollars remained of the $3,750,000,000 American loan and 500 million dollars of the $1,250,000,000 Canadian loan. He said at the present rate of spending, the American loan would run out in October and the Canadian loan one or two months later.

Britain is entitled to borrow a maximum or 320 million dollars from the International Bank under the Bretton Woods Agreement. This, the source said, would carry the country perhaps another month after the Canadian loan runs out.

Then, all that Britain will have left to pay for imports—and it is importing only items that it cannot do without—would be gold and dollar reserves of $2,400,000,000 and North American investments totaling perhaps $1,600,000,000.

These facts will be laid before Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder and other high American officials by Sir Wilfrid Eady and a British financial mission which will leave for Washington tomorrow. The primary purpose of the mission will be to discuss easing of the conditions of the American loan.

In addition, the American and British delegations are expected to discuss stopgap measures that might help this country carry on until next spring, when the Marshall Plan for General European recovery is expected to become effective.

Big Gap Remains

Under a bitter new austerity program, the government already has reduced food imports from the United States 40 per cent. This will save 64 million dollars a month, but there still will remain a gap between dollar expenditures and income of 136 million dollars.

Unless the United States gives Britain more help before spring, even more drastic reductions in imports appear certain. Britain also is looking for some way to stop paying dollars for its share of the cost of running the merged British-American zones in Germany.

Burmese Fire On Residence Of Anti-Fascist

Rangoon, Burma, Aug. 15 (U.P.).—Jeep-borne terrorists last night fired shots into the secretariat compound, the home of Anti-Fascist League Leader U Aung San and the hall where the bodies of eight assassinated Burmese leaders lie in state.

In each case, guards returned the fire, and the attackers drove off.

Meanwhile, police struck throughout Burma and arrested leading Communists, among them the wife, father-in law and sister-in-law of the exiled Red Leader Thakin Soe.

Police also were investigating the mysterious poisoning of 11 officers of the People's Volunteer Organization who were taken ill after dinner last night. Hospital officials said all were showing improvement.

Seek Fall Victim's Body

Tahoe City, Calif., Aug. 15 (U.P.).—Rescuers equipped with ropes and grappling hooks went into the rugged Twin Peaks area today to recover the body of Emmett Moyes Petit, 22, who fell to his death yesterday while mountain climbing. Pettit slipped on an icy snow bank and plunged several hundred feet.

Gem Theft Aboard Plane Is Reported

New York, Aug. 15 (INS).—A former New York City beauty queen charged today that she was robbed of $1000 in jewels sometime during a flight from Lisbon, Portugal, to Boston aboard a Pan-American World Airways clipper.

The charge, involving a "trans-Atlantic jewel theft," was the first of its kind in the history of American commercial aviation.

Mrs. Elsie Shomer, 33, complaining passenger, declared upon her arrival at LaGuardia Field, N. Y., following a search of the plane and its 39 passengers in Boston, that she believed the gems were stolen during the clipper's stopover at the Azores.

The New Yorker, who was "Miss New York" in 1933, said the clipper had paused for 45 minutes in the Azores, and she had left the plane then "to stretch my legs." She added:

"I left my black vanity bag containing the jewels—including a diamond and ruby pin and yellow gold, diamond-studded earrings—on my seat in the plane when I got off at the Azores."

Mrs. Shomer was met at LaGuardia Field by her husband, Paul, a paper box manufacturer, who told newsmen that "this is a $10,000 fuss over $1000 worth of jewels."

Customs officials declined to comment on the woman's charge.

3000 Scouts Take Part in Catholic Rites

Moisson, France, Aug. 15 (AP).—Bernard Cardinal Griffin, Catholic Archbishop of Westminster, officiated at an open air Assumption Day pontificial mass at the world Boy Scout jamboree today with 100 priests of various countries assisting.

About 3000 boys from 36 national contingents took communion. Mingled with them were 200 "white" Polish scouts in exile in France who entered the grounds and attended in force in their boldest assertion so far of their claim to a right in the jamboree.

After the mass, thousands of boys, including most of the English and the entire Canadian and Norwegian delegations, left for conducted tours of Paris.

Philip Murray, president of the CIO, told the Scout jamboree in a message today that he prayed that all future meetings of young men in uniform would be solely in the furtherance of internatonal amity.

Export Edge Held In French Zone

Frankfurt Germany, Aug. 15 (AP).—French authorities announced recently their German occupation zone had exported 72-million-dollars worth of goods and imported 69-million-dollars worth from August 1, 1945, to December 31, 1946, leaving a 3-million-dollar trade balance.

No figures have been released this year, but the trade balance is known to have been maintained. Three-fourths of the imports were food.

Few of the French zone manufactured products reach German consumers. Chemical products, surgical instruments and clothes manufactured are made largely to meet the French import needs. France bought 55-million-dollars worth of goods exported to the end of last year.

Ousted Pastor Won't Run for Ga. Governor

Atlanta, Aug. 15 (AP).—The Rev. Joseph A. Rabun, who was ousted as pastor of the McRae (Ga.) Baptist church because he criticized the principle of white supremacy, refused today to become a candidate for Governor of Georgia.

The tall, gaunt former Navy chaplain announced his decision after a closed meeting with labor leaders, war veterans and church dignitaries who said they were interested in securing a "liberal" aspirant for the governorship. His congregation included the late Engene Talmadge.
